Singing School Has

Our Singing School which is being conducted at the church each Monday night has been very successful inasmuch as several have gained some knowledge of music that will help out in our singing a lot. Your writer has observed many things which he thought might be well to express and is sure he is speaking the sentiments of a few others as well.

Realizing that such conditions may exist at other places as well as ours I speak to everyone in general.

At first the few that came were really seeking to learn more about music. Then from time to time others came and some were like minded, and some just to look on. But at last some have come, seemingly, not even realizing they are at a place of worship. They don't show any desire to learn, or respect those who are trying, but rather disturb. We know these young people are old enough and should know to act better.

Of course we welcome you to our place to reverently look on but we don't appreciate anyone coming to make a giggling party out of what we are trying to do.

Now if you happen to be one of this nature, I'm sure if you'll stop and think a little, you'll want to cooperate better in the future.
