...and I suggest it is for this reason that we should plant them. They are a beautiful addition to your home. I can see you looking out the kitchen window and counting five or six frolicking about. Place the feeding tray that they cannot climb to it or hang down nearby free onto the feeder. If it is suspended.
 Most any scraps from the kitchen can be used — sweetened, boiled eggs, rice and others — in addition to the seed mixture you can purchase from your dealer. Provide water, and you are

The oil industry serves aviation daily — and turnaround is fair play. Some tasks, once difficult, can be accomplished quickly and easily in the Air and Space Age. Consider, for example, a moving job (above) just completed by Humble Oil & Refining Company at its refinery in Linden, N. J. For sixteen years, spelled out in neon-lighted letters 15 feet high, Humble's three trademark stood atop the "cat-cracker," tallest of the plant's processing units. The unit is 240 feet high, taller than a 20-story building.

Negroes Hold 4th Annual Broiler Banquet

"Average" is not good enough", Denis Ramsey told a group of Negro broiler growers last Wednesday night. This was challenge to the group at the fourth Annual Broiler awards Banquet. Ramsey said "What is left after all other expenses are paid is called profit, and there must be a profit to remain in business. The profit", he said, "depends on the man involved. A poor grower may net four cents or less per bird, while efficient growers may receive an excess of eight cents." Ramsey was introduced by W. L. Pierce, Vo-Ag Teacher at Clarity High School.
 A Deep Bottom Grower was awarded the Broiler efficiency Trophy. Rudolph Spearman of Rt. 2, Wallace received the highest total number of points in a very close contest. Bizzell Johnson of Nash Johnson enterprises made the presentation of the revolving trophy. Johnson stated that although he was presenting the award to Spearman, most growers had made remarkable progress during the past few years. He then called Mrs. Spearman to share the honor in as much as she does the work, Johnson facetiously added.

complex tackle and many man-hours sixteen years ago; but when it was decided to relocate it on the roof of a building facing the New Jersey Turnpike, a helicopter lowered all four letters gently to the ground in just 13 minutes. From its former lofty perch, the big sign was visible at least 20 miles at night when weather was clear.

John McGuffin finally gets electricity in 1962, thanks to rural electrification

Who'll serve the million still without electricity?

Last July, a rural electric cooperative forded a heavy ocean of grass to bring electricity to John McGuffin's lonely ranch in New Mexico. John, who lives 30 miles from the nearest town, was the 3-millionth consumer to get light and power through the REA program. But there are still 10 million rural Americans living without electricity.
 McGuffin had no hope of electrifying his isolated ranch until Lea County Electric Cooperative was organized in 1949. With the help of Rural Electrification Administration loans, rural electric lines began to grow his way. Through the years, the local people who owned and operated this non-profit electric system never forgot their obligation to serve everyone . . . never stopped breaking trail to distant, out-of-the-way places.
 So John wasn't surprised when they strung the last 3 1/2 miles of wire that tied his lonely ranch to jet-age America! Now, he's the 6,689th member-owner of a local electric system serving a vast thinly populated area of 4,000 square miles.
 Today, only America's Rural Electrics are committed to bring electricity to all the people in their service areas. And the McGuffins will tell you we're doing just that — obstacles or not!

...much time is spent entertaining during the holiday season. Why not let your entertaining be a joy instead of an added chore this year. After all, this is an opportunity to share your home with others. South-owners are noted for their hospitality, but when the hostess rushes around doing unnecessary tasks or things that should have been done the day before, the guests feel they are late of months and the friendly welcome is destroyed.
 For easy entertaining keep refreshments simple with the holiday season. Plan the refreshments in advance and do as much work as possible ahead of time.
 Serve a drink, sandwiches or cookies for the refreshments. Sandwiches served for refreshments should be small and dainty. The crust is always removed and bread cut very thin. If sandwiches are to be cut in shapes, cut before spreading, as this saves filling. Butter or mayonnaise spread on bread before filling prevents bread from being soggy. Be sure to spread well to edges so sandwiches won't be dry. If sandwiches are to be made ahead of time, wrap a damp cloth. Some types of sandwiches can be frozen. When freezing sandwiches remember to use butter or cream cheese to spread on before filling. Some suggested fillings for sandwiches are finely chopped chicken with mayonnaise, grated tuna with chopped pickle and mayonnaise, and ham spreads.
