Famed Orchestra To Provide Music At Azalea Ball

WILMINGTON--- That genial southern gentleman George Doerner and his famed orchestra, will provide the music for the 1963 North Carolina Azalea Festival Queen's Coronation Ball.

The dance, one of the features of the 18th annual Azalea Festival will be held at Lumina Pavilion, Wrightsville Beach, on Saturday Night, April 6. Festival dates are April 4-7.

A native of Savannah, Ga., the personable young band leader began his professional career at an early age by organizing his first dance orchestra in high school and continuing as leader of the famed Georgia Bulldog Orchestra at the University of Georgia.

Following graduation, Doerner joined the Johnny Mack Orchestra for the summer season at the Ocean Forest Hotel in Myrtle Beach, S. C. He then spent two years with Tommy Dorsey and two years with Johnny Long before joining Jan Garber in 1954. While with Garber, he made plans for his own orchestra.

Having been associated with the Garber organization and seeing public reaction to that style of music, Doerner patterned his own musical styling after the "dean" of the dance band field.

In just a few short years, George Doerner and his orchestra have become one of America's leading dance bands.

The vocal stylings of Peggy Palmer will be featured by the George Doerner Orchestra during its Azalea Festival appearance.

The combined Nationalist Chinese-Army maneuver provided field training for airborne soldiers against Aggressor forces. The exercise received air support from the Nationalist Air Force and elements of the U. S. Pacific Air Force.

Chestnut, a rifleman in the battle group's Company A, regularly stationed on Okinawa, entered the Army in May 1962 and completed basic combat training at Fort Jackson, S. C.

The 19-year-old soldier is a 1961

graduate of Douglass High School in Warsaw, N. C.

"Finally darkness came..."

... and we turned on the clear bulbs. As we sat down to supper, Mama could tell whether we had washed our hands and you could see well enough to tell if the bowl was filled with collards or turnip greens. I looked up to the dangling light and said to myself, "Now we are almost as good as town people."

That's how a 35-year-old Eastern North Carolina man remembers the beginning of REA and the first night with lights. Only three out of 100 rural North Carolina homes had electricity then, so you may have a similar memory.

Remember the long years of waiting... and the refusals of the existing power companies. And then the decision of rural people to organize and do the job themselves.

Today, nearly 98 out of 100 rural homes have electricity. They do because of a basic American freedom: The freedom to organize to provide ourselves with a service on a nonprofit basis.

This freedom is just as precious as the freedom to organize and invest for the purpose of profit. Our rural electric cooperatives believe in both freedoms.

"LUXURY CAR: RIDES, RESPONDS AND LOOKS" LIKE IT OUGHT TO COST A RANSOM

You're looking at our Impala Super Sport Convertible which, along with its cousin the Sport Coupe, absolutely embarrasses higher priced cars.

That special trim and those front bucket seats merely hint at the comforts you find built into every Impala Super Sport.

Performance? It's remarkable, an understatement we can afford when there are 7 engines to choose from. One of which is the popular 340-hp Turbo-Fire 409*, a wizard in traffic and a joy on the open road. And others all the way up to 425 hp*.

If you want an extra flourish or two, mull over extra-cost options like floor-shift four-speed manual or Powerglide transmission, Positraction, fade-resistant sintered-metallic brake linings, and a tachometer to relay what's cooking up front.

Just before you rush off to your Chevrolet dealer, may we remind you that both Impala Super Sports offer the new Comfortilt steering wheel*. You adjust it to suit your driving style, flick it out of the way for easy entry and exit.

All three Chevrolet series—Biscayne, Bel Air and Impala—deserve a long look. Super Sports demand it.

Super Sport equipment* available on both Impala Convertible and Sport Coupe.

*Optional at extra cost.
