MY TRIP

By 6th Grade Student At Beulaville.

My sixth grade class of Beulaville School took a trip to Raleigh, Durham, and Chapel Hill on Friday, March 27, 1963. We visited Duke Chapel, the Planetarium, the State House, the Museum, The Hall of History, the Coliseum to see the Ice Capades, and Durham High School Gym to see the ball game.

We first visited Duke Chapel. It was so tall I could hardly see the top. In the chancel we saw where Mr. Duke, his wife, and another man were buried. A carved figure of them was lying on their vault. We went down into the basement and saw where some more men were buried. I enjoyed seeing the pipe organ with its large pipes more than any thing else in the chapel.

From Duke Chapel in Durham we went to Chapel Hill to see Morehead Planetarium. There we saw the story, "Easter, the Awakening" and where some of the constellations were. We went into a place known as the planet room. There we saw how the planets revolve around the sun.

After visiting the Planetarium we went to a station to eat dinner and from there we went back to Raleigh.

At Raleigh we went to see the State House. It has five gardens, one at each corner of the building and one in the center. They all have pools but one.

We then went to the museum where we saw skeletons and animals, etc. There was also an Indian girl's head which I liked most.

From there we went to the Hall of History. There we saw some slides of what we would see. We went through it and we had a chance to buy souvenirs.

From the Hall of History we went to Reynolds Coliseum to see the Ice Capades. They were very colorful and I enjoyed them very much. I enjoyed seeing Spanky, a skating chimp most. He did many tricks including my favorite one-jumping over some dolls.

From the Ice Capades in Raleigh we went back to Durham to see the basket-ball game between East Duplin and Angier. It was a very close game because East Duplin only won by one point.

The trip back home was very long and tiresome, but we finally got home about two o'clock. I think we all enjoyed it very much and we would like to go right back again if we could.

We appreciate the time and effort put forth by our teachers, Mrs. Louise Brown, Mrs. Lillian Grady, and Mary Ann Blizard to make sure a nice and well-planned trip possible.

Last week's column, giving some highlights on the production of sunflower seed, created considerable interest. A number of requests for more complete information has been received and answered.

"A small weed with a purple flower is giving me trouble in my lawn. Please tell me what it is and how it can be controlled."

The weed is henbit and can be controlled by spraying with Silvex (DNBP). Use one-third fluid ounce of DNBP per gallon of water. This should be applied as a wetting spray. The material will also control chickweed.

For the broadleaved weeds in the lawn 2, 4-D amine (not ester) is recommended. To reduce danger of injury to flowers and shrubs from spray drift, use low pressure and apply the spray on quiet days. The sooner you spray after growth starts, the better control you can expect.

A student brought to class this week three of four stems of eunonymus heavily infested with euonymus scale. These insects are of the sucking type and attack the stems, leaf petioles and blades. They can give a plant a rough time if not controlled.

Dormant oil, 10 tablespoons per gallon of water, can be used while plants are still dormant (before any new growth starts). After growth starts, use summer oil 5 tablespoons per gallon of water. Do not use oil when the temperature is likely to go below 50 degrees during the night. Choose a warm day.

Malathion, 57 per cent EC, may also be used. This material is most effective during certain stages of development of the insects. The oil treatment is probably better. Whatever is used, spray thoroughly, especially undersides of leaves.

Sometimes I spray from the subject a little but I think that this note is worth passing along.

There is a right and wrong way to wear a seat belt. A New Orleans woman had to have her spleen removed because she wore her belt loosely over her abdomen and lower rib cage.

The only advantage in this case was that she was not thrown from the car and possibly killed. However, she did fracture two ribs, struck her head on the windshield and her upper chest on the dashboard in addition to rupturing her spleen. She recovered.

Mrs. William Cooke and Kenneth Myer of New Orleans believe this to be the first reported case of a wrongly worn belt to cause a ruptured spleen.

If you use a belt in your car, wear it properly over the bony structure of the hip and pelvis-not across the abdomen.

This report was made to the AMA and I have quoted parts from Science Newsletter.
