

Farm Income Ranks Second In Farm Income

March 30 - Robeson moved to become the agricultural county in North Carolina and the only county with a farm income of $60 million. It moved into place with a farm income of $48.7 million. Robeson's income eased down to $45.9 million with an income of $45.9 million.

Director R. W. Shoffner of the North Carolina Agricultural Extension Service at State College reported the income figures in a first summary of the "1.5 in '63" farm program in the State.

Under the program, farm leaders in every county have set a five-year (1957-61) farm income goal, and have developed a program for reaching that goal. The state goal calls for a gross farm income of $1.75 billion (nearly $1.6 billion in 1961) in 1963, or nearly 24 per cent more than farmers received in 1961.

RECORD SALES
According to estimates made by agricultural extension agents in each county, gross farm sales in North Carolina reached a record $2.3 billion in 1962, up 6.3 per cent over a year earlier. Government payments amounted to another $400 million, bringing total farm income for the year to $1,302 million.

In addition to Robeson, Duplin and Johnston, other top counties for the year: Columbus, $44.6 million; Sampson, $41.3 million; Pitt, $36.9 million; Wake, $36.2 million; Nash, $35 million; Harnett, $33 million; and Wayne, $31.7 million.

WILKES RISE
While these counties lead in total income, it was Wilkes County that made the most spectacular farm income gains in 1962. Wilkes farm sales reached $25.3 million in 1962 or nearly 60 per cent more than the $15 million received in 1961. Poultry and egg sales accounted for most of the increase.

In developing their part of the "1.5 in '63" Program, farm leaders in Wilkes had outlined a 1966 farm income goal of $18.5 million. They exceeded their five-year goal in one year by 37 per cent.

Another county that made rapid income gains in 1962 was Columbus with $44.6 million in farm sales, or over $3 million more than in 1961. A record tobacco crop accounted for most of the increase.

Here are some additional counties that marked up sizable income gains in 1962. The first figure listed is the approximate 1962 gross income. It is followed by the approximate amount of increase the 1962 figures represents over 1961. Both figures are expressed in millions of dollars.

Rotarians Hear Wilbur Long

Mr. Wilbur Long of Raleigh, Chief of the Stream Pollution Board, was guest speaker at the Warsaw Rotary Club last Thursday. He was introduced by Mayor Ed Strickland.

Mr. Long stated that streams are one of the biggest problems in the state. He went on to say that North Carolina has an average of twenty-nine billion gallons of water per day flowing into the rivers and the ocean, and the main trouble is we do not maintain the water and at times it gets down to two million gallons a day. The four main classifications of water are usable for drinking, water that can be made into drinking water, water that can not be used to drink but can be used for agriculture and industry purposes, and the water so polluted that it is non-usable. There are two ways of treating pollution, he said, the primary treatment which is used in Warsaw and the secondary treatment which is needed, where by the polluted water is treated with chemicals to help remove the pollution.

The meeting was held at the Coffee Shop with president E. B. Boyette presiding. Mr. W. G. Britt gave the invocation. Mr. J. A. Cavanaugh was remembered with a gift for his birthday and Mr. and Mrs. Robert West were remembered on their anniversary.

U. D. C. Officers

On Friday night the home of Mrs. Lou Belle Williams was the scene of an informal buffet dinner given in honor of the North Carolina Division and District No. 9 Officers and members of the John Ivey Thomas Chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy.

Guests were greeted by Mrs. Williams and invited into the living room where Grace was said by the Chaplain Mrs. Ray Humphrey. Toasts were given by Mrs. Margaret Edwards and Mrs. Lou J. Kennedy.

The Guest were then invited to the dining room to be served, ham, asparagus casserole, string beans, congealed salad, on lettuce, sliced tomatoes, carrots, pickles, stuffed celery, hot rolls and iced tea. For dessert the hostess used Lemon Cake with lemon topping and ice cream. Miniature rabbits made of Easter egg candy nested in green seafoam candy were used as favors.

After dinner the guests enjoyed and old fashion social hour.

"Cardiovascular" is one of the most important words of your life, says the North Carolina Heart Association. "Cardio" means heart, "vascular" means the arteries and veins. The cardiovascular system contains 60,000 miles of blood vessels.
