Garden Time

The temperature today in Raleigh is about 80 degrees and a far cry from the temperatures we experienced at Christmas time. However, we still have a reminder of Christmas with us, and I want to tell you about it.

It is a poinsettia, commonly referred to as "Christmas flower." It has been 'in bloom' since Dec. 1, 1962, and is still in a healthy state of beauty. All of the leaves are green and the red bract ("bloom") has lost none of its color.

The unusual feature about this plant is the fact that it has been in an office window and has had no special treatment except water.

As many of you know, the poinsettia is strictly a greenhouse plant, in this region, and all of the common varieties will soon lose their leaves when taken from the favorable environment of the greenhouse and placed in the homes during the Christmas season.

We did not originate the plant. It is a seedling selection and was sent to us for testing. The only conclusion that can be drawn is that the long shelf life is due to heritable characters resulting from carefully controlled breeding. We are observing the selection with considerable interest.

There are many things that you can still do to spruce the place up a bit. Plant annuals and perennials in beds or borders. Don't forget to try Thunbergia zinnia this summer. It is low growing, beautiful and is especially good for bedding.

Window and porch boxes, pots, urns and wooden buckets and tubs can be used in a variety of places. If you have a stump of an old tree in the yard, about two or three feet high, put a tub of geraniums or petunias on it.

Fill hanging baskets with ivy, wandering jew or purple lantana. Try geraniums, coleus, petunias and lobelia in well placed window or porch boxes. Many interesting color combinations can also be worked out using combinations of these plants. Tuberous begonias make a beautiful show planted alone.

The axle and two wheels of an old buggy or wagon can be placed somewhere in the yard and a plant
