SENATOR ERVIN SAYS

WASHINGTON - The Senate Judiciary Committee opened hearings this week on civil rights legislation. Fifteen measures have been referred to the Committee relating to civil rights proposals. The most inclusive proposal in S. 1731 which embodies in one bill the package proposals included in the President's June 19 message. It consists of eight titles dealing with legislation from public accommodations to desegregation of the public schools. In this column I shall discuss the provisions of Title III of S. 1731 which relate to the Federal powers requested to enforce a planned desegregation of the public schools.

Already in our nation it is repeatedly stated that the public schools are in need of large sums of money to finance a progressive educational program. The needs are demonstrated and local and state authorities are certainly making every effort in North Carolina to meet the tremendous costs. In any discussion of Title III of S. 1731, it should be recognized that if the Federal government engages in a program of enforced desegregation of neighborhood schools, there will be an immense cost which may be shared by local school boards and Federal taxpayers. Amazingly enough the cost involved will be only incidental to the educational values for the students involved. For the most part, it will not involve the educational process of learning history, grammar, and arithmetic. Instead, it involves both the concepts of desegregation and a newer concept being promoted in some circles which is called "racial imbalance" in the public schools. This latter concept is one which an editorial writer in the Winston-Salem Journal recently defined as "Integration for the mere sake of integrating."

The "racially balanced" school theory deprives children of all races of the right to attend schools with their neighbors, their friends, and their playmates.

Under Title III of S. 1731 two sets of powers are proposed to be granted to the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare and the Attorney General. The Commissioner of Education would be empowered to conduct investigations of racial problems in the schools, plan for desegregation of the public schools at the local level, and educate the public on how to deal with school desegregation problems. He would be authorized to arrange institutes "to improve the ability of teachers, supervisors, and counselors" to deal with desegregation problems and pay them to attend these institutes. He could employ specialists to educate parents, schoolchildren, and the general public on the Administration's views on desegregation. In essence, the power of the Federal purse could be used to engage in mass selling of a Federal program to be conducted in this area of human relations. To my knowledge, this would provide an expenditure of tax monies unlike any I have seen written into law.

The measure would grant the Attorney General an uncontrolled and uncontrollable discretion in bringing of suits to desegregate the public schools. Title III gives the Attorney General the power to use its provisions to pursue any desegregation purpose he sees fit including a political purpose. It apparently adopts the theory that all schools must be desegregated whether the races or the people in the communities want them desegregated or not. It abrogates the fundamental concept of government that the shortest way to governmental tyranny is to vest vast discretionary power on a public official.

It seems to me that Title III gets far afield from the concept that our efforts as citizens ought to be directed toward education of every boy and girl commensurate with his ability.

Civil Defense Tips - - -

(By Ralph M. Cottle, Director Duplin Civil Defense Agency) (Third In A Series)

In last week's issue (June 26) of the News and Observer there was an article entitled "Teller Warns Test Ban May Be Fatal." There were some facts brought to the public's attention which should certainly stir everyone's thought on the security of our future. For those who did not read it, I would like to point out some of its contents.

Nuclear physicist Edward Teller said Tuesday history may know Americans as a people who "ended their national existence because of a lack of elementary foresight and wisdom" about the dangers of nuclear attack.

This could happen, he said, if the Soviet Union prepares to withstand nuclear attack and the United States does not.

Teller also testified before a House Armed Services subcommittee and coupled his warnings with a statement that the Russians are doing more about Civil Defense routes, weather conditions and list of interesting things observed.

A few years ago the 50-Miler Award was created. This is given to each individual member of a Scout or Explorer unit that covers a wilderness foot trail or canoe or boat route of not less than fifty consecutive miles, taking a minimum of five days to complete the trip without the aid of motors. In addition, minimum of ten hours of group work must be put in on projects to improve the trail, spring, camp site, portage, or wilderness area.

Last year 18 Scouts and leaders of the Tuscarora Council qualified for this award. Nationally 16,151 Scouts and leaders earned this honor.

The skills of swimming have been developed in millions of Scouts. Each year more than 100,000 Scouts and Explorers qualify for the swimming merit badge. Last year 90 boys in the Tuscarora Council qualified for this second most popular merit badge subject.

National recognition is given to Scouts and Explorers for completing a continuous mile swim. This is a real achievement in physical fitness and water safety. The "long pull" develops muscles, endurance and coordination.

Testing is done under safe conditions. The swimmer earlier must have swum at least a quarter mile in one stretch without great effort.

In the mile swim, speed is not a factor and timing is not permitted. Last year 49 Scouts and Explorers of the Tuscarora Council qualified for the Mile Swim card and swim-cuit insignia.

than is the United States. And he said the Soviet Union may be ahead in efforts to develop an effective defense against ballistic missiles.

"It may well turn out that deficiency in our Civil Defense endeavor is the weakest link in our program of preparedness," Teller said.

He urges congressional approval of the administration's 175-million proposal to spur fallout shelter construction through inventive payments to public and nonprofit institutions. (NOTE: If bill is passed, the Federal Government will assist nonprofit organizations in construction of public buildings; for example, school houses which are constructed so as to offer protection to the public in the event of a disaster.)

The California scientist said if the United States spends 10 per cent of its defense budget on Civil Defense measures, "the Russians will know for sure that this way they cannot bury us."

It is important that all of our Duplin County citizens think seriously about dangers they face. It is an established fact that if the people express the belief that there is nothing they can do and do nothing we will fail and communism will certainly survive. Instead of taking a negative view we must take positive action and not assume that someone is doing the task for us.

Changes In Your Social Security

Although the Social Security Act was enacted 27 years ago, there still is an occasional employer who fails to file social security reports of wages for his employees.

At the present time, all employment in commerce and industry is covered by social security, and there is no requirement that an employer have a certain number of employees. For example, a carpenter might employ just one helper; if so, he must deduct social security tax and report the earnings for social security purposes.

The employer is required to keep a record for each employee of wages paid and taxes withheld. He should copy into his permanent records the names and social security account numbers of his employees exactly as they appear on their social security cards. At the close of each calendar quarter, the employer must prepare a quarterly return on Form 941.

Kenansville Yankees Split With Beulaville 6-4, 2-1

Yanks Near Second Straight Tar Heel Championship

The Kenansville Yankees of the Little Tar Heel League need just one more win to sew up their second straight league championship. The defending champs have to win one more of their last three games. It will mark the second year the Yankees have been in the league and it looks like they are still the cream in this section. Of course material has to be the real mark of a good team, but I can't help but feel that all the material in the world would not amount to much without someone to get that something out of the boys. To make a ing story short we love to talk about our Amos Brinson a little bit. This past week the Beulaville Jaycees turned the trick and beat the defending champs 6-4, behind the four-hit pitching of Terry Quinn. Clark Helton, the star for the Yanks led the K'ville team with three-for-four. Ronnie Bostic, ace of the Yanks pitching staff, contributed a double to the cause. T. Batchelor led the Jaycees at bat with two-for-four for the winners.

The Yanks, Clark Helton, hurled a near five hitter last week as the K'ville team edged Freshy 2-1, Ed

Denny, the loser burlied five hit ball but the champs were just a little more than they could handle. Helton, was the hero by leading the hitting with two-for-three. Jimmy Stroud stole home with the winning run in the bottom of the six with bases loaded.
