SAFETY HINT

from the Red Cross

A quick way to get hurt is to select the spot directly under the diving board for your swimming. You may get badly bruised, and so, very likely, will the diver. Stay away from this part of the pool, and swimming will be more enjoyable for all.

years later, this disabled worker and their families - who receive a total of about $32 million each month.

Another family in this community found out recently that social security is important to people of all ages. When a 25-year old laborer was killed in an auto accident, his widow and young son became entitled to monthly survivors benefits which will continue until the boy reaches age 18. At that time payments would stop, but the widow's benefit would resume when she reached 62, if she had not remarried.

Yes, social security protects you during, as well as after, your working years. The amount of your benefit will depend on the money you have earned during your working years.

After working years, social security pays retirement benefits. But you cannot collect any kind of benefits unless you apply for them. If you are nearing retirement age, visit your Social Security Office to find out what benefits can be paid to you.

In order for you and your family to collect the amount of benefits due, you must be sure that the account which the Social Security Administration maintains for you is accurate. Whether you work on a farm or in a factory, in an office or as a domestic in a private home, make sure your employer has your correct social security number and is reporting your wages to the Social Security Administration. It's a good idea to check your social security account once every 3 years, especially if you change jobs. Your Social Security District Office at 311 East Walnut Street in Goldsboro will provide a postcard, Form 7004, which you may use for this purpose.

Changes In Your Social Security

"At my age, why should I worry about social security - that's for old people," is a frequent comment from workers in their thirties and forties.

But recently, two families discovered that social security concerns younger people, too. After working 20 years, a 42-year old tobacco warehouseman suffered a heart attack and became unable to work. Social security eased the financial burden caused by the loss of his regular salary. He filed a claim for disability insurance benefits at the Social Security District Office in Goldsboro. The Social Security Office helped him make the application, and now a check for $254 arrives monthly, the disability benefit for himself, his wife, and their 3 children.

Cash disability benefits were first paid in July 1957. Now, 6
