Card Of Thanks

Mr. and Mrs. George Sandborn of Portland, Michigan wish to express their sincere thanks to the people who were so kind to their daughter and family at the time of the sudden death of her husband, John Q. Edwards. Such expressions of sympathy and kindness have never before been seen or appreciated so much.

Over two years of consumer and laboratory research went into the development of the new Peter Pan peanut butter just introduced. This new peanut butter has unique moistness and depth of flavor which make it ideal as a recipe ingredient, as well as for sandwiches and snacks. The Home Economists in the Peter Pan kitchens have created many delicious and unusual recipes among them, this Peanut Clam Bisque . . . an easy, nutritious main dish the whole family will enjoy for lunch or dinner. Because of the high quality protein in the peanut butter, all you need add to make a balanced meal is crusty bread, salad and fruit dessert.

PEANUT CLAM BISQUE

(Makes about 8 cups)

- 3 cans (7 ounces each) minced clams
 - 1 can (18 ounces) whole kernel corn
 - 1 small onion, sliced
 - 2 cups light cream
 - 1/2 cup Peter Pan Smooth Peanut Butter
 - 1/2 teaspoon salt
 - 1/2 teaspoon pepper
 - Finely minced pimiento
- Force undrained clams, corn and onion through food mill or blend in electric blender 1 minute. Transfer to top of double boiler and stir in the cream, peanut butter, salt and pepper. Cook over boiling water until mixture just reaches boiling point, stirring occasionally.

"... I'm glad we chose electric heat," says Mrs. Ernest Hilfiker of Black Mountain, N. C.

"Over a period of years, we have used many different types of heat including gas, oil and hot water. However, our electric heat has proven to be the most economical and satisfactory we have ever had. The operating costs are even cheaper than had been expected.

"The inexpensive installation cost, the quietness of the system, the absence of unpleasant odors are just a few of the many features of our electric heat.

"I can say without reservation, I'm glad we chose electric heat."

Over 6,500 families served by CP&L now know the comfort and satisfaction of living in a home equipped with flameless electric heat. Before buying, building or remodeling, why not get the full story for yourself! Call your nearest CP&L office today. No obligation, of course.
