ASCS NOTES

WHAT IS YOUR CONSERVATION NEED?

There is a conservation need on each and every farm in Duplin County. It may be forestry improvement, liming, cover crops, or numerous other things, but the need is there. What conservation need is there on your farm?

Give this matter careful consideration. The lives of the world depend upon our farmland and our farmers. We must keep our soil fertile and productive.

When you have decided on the conservation needs for your farm, file your request for ACP assistance (on practices available at this time) with the ASCS County Committee through the ASCS County Office. The county committee can then approve assistance for your farm to the extent that available funds will allow them to do so.

Remember - the county committee cannot approve assistance for your farm until you request assistance. Think about the conservation needs for your farm - then file your request for assistance. The County Committee and County Office personnel will be glad to discuss with you your conservation needs.

Want you let the County Committee help you with some ACP assistance?

ASCS COMMUNITY ELECTIONS

Again we mention the subject of community committee elections. We continue to discuss them with you because we want to keep them on your minds. Why? Because we

GRAZING DIVERTED ACREAGE

The prevailing regulations governing the 1965 wheat stabilization and feed grain programs have been amended so that diverted acreage may be grazed on and after October 1, 1963 rather than on November 1, 1963 as was previously announced.

Diverted acreage on which there is soybeans or other "dissected" crops, "white" road plots, and acreage on which grain crops have matured in 1963 may not be grazed in 1963.

COMMITTEE MEETING

The present Community Committee will meet tonight at 8:00 p. m. in the county office to complete a state of nominees for their respective communities and to establish community polling places. The list of addresses and polling places will be made public next week.

FARM LABORERS

Years ago, all hired farm hands needed was a strong back. Today, of the million and a half men hired to work for wages on farms for at least 20 years, almost half are experienced in some mechanical skill, either in major repair and maintenance or the operation of farm machinery. About one-third of the men run tractors or trucks while only 1 out of 3 works at unskilled hand labor.

On a regional basis, the South has the highest proportion of unskilled farm laborers - 60 per cent of the region's farm working force. (The Farm Index, July 1963.)

Garmon Named Dist. 4-H Agent

A veteran of seven years' service with the N. C. Agricultural Extension Service has been named to head the 4-H program in the state's Eastern District.

William M. (Bill) Garmon, a native of Cabarrus County, leaves the position of extension administrative management assistant to take the Eastern District 4-H agent post.

Extension Director George Hyatt Jr. said Garmon will fill the position left vacant recently when Fred Wagoner was appointed state 4-H specialist.

In his new position Garmon will be responsible for planning programs and giving guidance to the 4-H program in the 16 eastern-most counties. He will train and work with county extension agents in carrying out the 4-H program.

A 1953 graduate of N. C. State with a degree in agricultural education, Garmon holds a M. S. degree from Clemson College.

He joined agricultural extension as an assistant agent in Transylvania County in 1956. In 1963 he came to the N. C. State campus to assume responsibilities with the N. C. 4-H Development Fund, Inc. It was in 1960 that he became administrative management assistant.

Garmon is married to the former Martha Frances Martin of Cowpens, S. C. Residents of Cary, they have two children.
