A Tribute To My Mother

I would like to pay public tribute to my fine Christian mother, Maggie Walker Woodward, who passed away recently. God let our family keep her until she was almost 91 years of age, her birthday being the 29th of this month. During her latter years her health failed completely and it was my privilege to repay at last in a small way the kindnesses she had always showered upon our whole family.

My mother was always kind, sweet and generous to everybody, and a good neighbor. One of her greatest attributes was that she loved young people. Her son, my brother, was a preacher (who pastored at one time the Baptist Church in Sallsbury), and she always held a special place in her heart for ministers of the gospel. She was cheerful when it was difficult to be cheerful, patient when it was difficult to be patient. The seeds of true motherhood lived within her in that she lived in deeds, not in years. She made a habit, among the members of her family and also with others, of plucking thistles and planting flowers wherever she thought flowers would grow.

Above all my mother had an abiding faith in God and had a deep respect for the teachings of the Holy Bible. Prayer was constantly upon her lips, even to her last days when her health prevented participation in the normal activities of life.

Our mother meant everything to our family that God intended for a Christian mother to mean. Our loss is heaven's gain. "The Lord gave, and the Lord hath taken away; blessed be the name of the Lord."
