There's an extra day in Leap Year and we hope that means you're going to have an extra-special year! THE NEW YEAR Horatio Nelson Powers

A flower unblown; a book unread; A tree with fruit unharvested; A path untrod; a house whose room Lack yet the heart's divine perfumes; A landscape whose wide border lies In silent shade beneath the skies; A wondrous fountain yet unsealed; A casket with its gifts concealed--This is the Year that for you waits Beyond tomorrow's mystic gates.

ience. Got to Raleigh in the sleet and rain--the plane was grounded. Margaret and I get all settled in the hotel for the night and Beck calls and says "carch the midnight train." So we get dressed again, pull out in the weather, catch the train and ride all night in the day coach. Riding the train again was really an experience, People are more sociable and friendly on the train than on the plane. We arrived back in Raleigh by plane and our bags were not there. So we had a time chasing them down.

You should have seen the snow in New Jersey--speaking of White Christmases--New Jersey really overdid it. The snow was ten to twelve inches deep or more, and under that snow was solid ice. Yourstruly did not venture out of the house unless Roger was at my elbow or under the wheel doing the driving. He is really a good driver and they live in the hills, so when the hills were too steep, I would close my eyes until the car was safely parked. I'll have to say Beck is a good driver too, 'cause I didn't think she could do it. Driving on ice is my one fear that I haven't been able to overcome. But still to have Christmas with your family is worth any price one has to pay, even if ice is involved. The scenery was beautiful and people in Jersey go all out for outside Christmas decorations, it really looked like the Christmas cards that we have enjoyed all of these years. OK, Roger?

Kenansville, along with the rest of Duplin County, was a sheet of ice on Tuesday mornsheet of ice on Tuesday morning. The only thing I regret is that someone did not have a movie camera in tront of the post office. They would have been able to sell their film for a fairly good price. I don't know exactly how many fell, but it was a pretty sizable number, Lawyers, welfare officers, post office officials, and barbers, bank clerks, just about everyone. Larry Brown suffered a broken nose when he fell. Haven't heard of any other broken noses around town, but have heard that a few are extracareful how they sit. Cars and tankers were all up and down the road in ditches.

ANNUAL FARM CENSUS Farming today is just as much of a business enterprise as running a store or a factory, and successful management in both instances depends largely on the possession of sound factual information about all phases of the operations involved.

This is the reason back of North Carolina's Annual Farm Census. Both for the individual farmer and for farm leaders who are responsible for overall agricultural planning, it fills the same need as an inventory does in a business concern. The Farm Census helps the farmer by annually focusing his attention on his stock-in-trade. It encourages him to take an accounting of his land, livestock and equipment. The information thus developed enables him to do a better job of farming and farm marketing.

These facts are published in summary form, showing totals heid a check-up meeting in the Agriculture Building Monda; Night at 7:30. About thirty wor-kers and interested persons state as a whole. It is of untold value as a guide in settingup farm programs.

Rockfish Man Frozen

The night was cold and when the man was found early Christmas morning he had been frozen so stiff that no part of him would bend and he could be moved like a board.
