JOINT RIGHTS TO SAFE DEPOSIT BOXES

May a safe deposit box be rented by two persons?

Yes. More often, however, the box is rented by one person alone, who may in writing appoint another as his deputy or agent to have access to the box, upon presentation of the key. The authority of such deputy or agent may in writing be revoked at any time. The death of the box renter automatically terminates the authority of his deputy or agent.

A safe deposit box in the vault of a bank has been leased by a husband. The husband has given to his wife one of the duplicate keys and has appointed her his deputy or agent. The husband dies. Who now has access to the safe deposit box?

The person who qualifies as the executor or administrator of the husband's estate. The wife's appointment as her husband's deputy or agent has been terminated by his death.

The statutes of North Carolina require the presence of the clerk of the Superior Court at the opening of a safe deposit box in the vault of a bank "upon the death of any person using or having access to such a lock box."

The law imposes upon the Clerk of the Superior Court, or his representative, a duty to make an inventory of the safe deposit box, in the presence of a representative of the bank, and to furnish a copy of the inventory to the Commissioner of Revenue, the executor or administrator of the decedent, or co-tenant of the decedent, and the bank.

If the wife should die before her husband, the husband would not have an immediate free access to the safe deposit box which he has rented in his own name. Since in this case his deceased wife has had access to the box, the presence of the clerk of the Superior Court and the making of an inventory by him is a condition precedent to the opening of the box for the first time following his wife's death. Where the decedent merely had access to the safe deposit box, the inventory by the clerk of the Superior Court includes only assets in which the decedent had an interest.

CHEVY-VAN!

Chevrolet's new low-cost quality delivery truck!

This introduces you to Chevy-Van—our new economy delivery truck.

It has a low price tag, over 40 sq. ft. of completely usable flat floor 7½ ft. long, the engine up front, and a lot of quality features which make it a better buy. The body and frame-floor are welded together. The truck is strong, rigid, stable. Doors are double-wall construction.

Chevy-Van has unusual resistance to rust and corrosion. Especially vulnerable areas such as front stepwells are galvanized. Sealers are used at all critical joints inside and out. Certain sections are treated with high-zinc-content primers; others with an aluminum-wax preservative.

The windshield is a big flat practical one-piece unit. The big 90-hp 4-cylinder standard engine is more powerful than some 6s, yet is remarkably economical. If you need more power, Chevy-Van offers a 120-hp six at extra cost. Side doors and rear windows also cost extra.

Last but not least, it's a Chevrolet. Which means that it is built to work for you a long time at minimum cost.
