Social Security

BY: James P. Temple
District Manager

People who get social security checks every month often ask how they can have their monthly benefit payments increased. Usually the reason for their asking is because the cost of living has risen some since they retired.

I have to tell most of these folks that we can't raise their checks. There are some, however, who can get increased benefits. These are the people who continue to do some work even after they start getting social security benefits. It's possible, you see, to have your social security benefit refigured to include additional earnings. One of the nice things about this refiguring is that it is now done almost automatically. I say almost automatically because there are a couple of things you have to do so that our office will know that you are due a raise.

At the time you put in for your social security payments, whoever took your claim in our office explained your obligation to make an annual report to the Social Security Administration at the end of the year if you made over $1,200 while you were still under 72 years of age. When you make this annual report, you will tell us what you made in 1963 and your expected earnings for 1964. From this report we will know whether we sent you the right amount of money last year.

We also know if we should send you a check every month this year. For example, suppose you retired in March of 1963, applied for social security benefits, and indicated that you expected to continue working part-time. Maybe you told us you'd make $2,000 for all of 1963. As it turned out, though, you were sick in August and September and didn't work those months. You didn't make the $2,000 you said you had expected to make. When you tell us this in your annual report, we'll know that we owe you some additional benefits for last year and we'll send it to you. Then, again, suppose you retired and applied for social security back in 1962. You remained retired all through 1962 and we sent you all your checks that year. In January 1963 you came in and told us you were called back to the plant and would make $4,000 for the year, working every month. Since you made over

$1,200 you were required by law to make an annual report for 1963. You did this and sent it in. Our payment center looked over it, check your social security record and decided that the $4,000 you made, added to your previous earnings, entitled you to a higher social security benefit rate. They told us and we wrote to come in and sign up to have your benefit refigured. You now get $4 a month more than you did in 1962. If you hadn't made the annual report, we wouldn't have known about your 1963 earnings, and you probably would not have qualified for an increase in your monthly checks.

Remember, if you applied for social security benefits, then went back to work and made over $1,200 last year, you must make an annual report to the Social Security Administration. When? By April 15, 1964. That's also the deadline date for your income tax return. Your income tax return goes to the Internal Revenue Service. The annual report I'm talking about comes to us, the Social Security Administration.

Therefore, come in to see us at 311 East Walnut Street in Goldsboro if you have done any reasonable amount of work since your retirement began.

CHEVELLE! by CHEVROLET—a great highway performer

Chevelle balanced performance is best!

Passing, cornering, threading through traffic, sudden stops—Chevelle excels all around! Chevrolet's new surprise package has what it takes to meet any driving challenge: Six or V8 engines, hefty brakes, Full Coil suspension—and a trim size that makes the most of them!

Chevelle means performance aplenty—standard 120-hp Six or 195-hp V8—and optional at extra cost, a 155-hp Six, a 220-hp V8, a new 327-cu.-in. V8! But Chevelle's performance means more. Chevelle's a foot shorter than the big cars. And the space Chevelle saves in size comes off the ends, not the middle. So it rides like you want a car to ride.

Chevelle lets you choose Powerglide*, 4-speed manual* or 3-speed manual transmission. Knowing how people like the custom touch, we wrote out a long list of extra-cost options.

Knowing all this, what's keeping you from a test drive? Certainly not your Chevrolet dealer!
