On Friday, after registration workshops in over 15 health careers were held. Those workshops ranged from medicine and physical therapy to social work and public health and were supervised by qualified persons in each particular field. These workshops proved to be especially interesting and informative.

After the workshops, a general assembly was held, with Kay Gilliam State President, presiding. This assembly included a welcome from Mayor Benton of Winston Salem and the nominations for new state officers.

A banquet was held Friday night with Mr. Fred Weaver, Secretary of the Consolidated University of North Carolina as speaker. On Saturday morning, the group toured the Forsyth Memorial Hospital. This hospital is not opened yet and contains the most up-to-date and modern equipment. Forsyth Hospital cost over $15,000,000. The tour consisted not only of the various floors, the operating rooms, and emergency, but also of the hospital laundry, kitchen, and medical library. At each area, a qualified personnel explained what went on in that area and the duties of the various people.

A luncheon was held Saturday at noon, with Dr. Courtland H. Davis, Jr., Associate Professor of Neurosurgery at Bowman Gray School of Medicine, as speaker. At the end of the luncheon, the new state officers were announced and the Congress dismissed.

ASCS NEWS

By

RUFUS ELKS, JR.

The sign up for the 1964 feed grain program now is under way in the ASCS County office. The sign up period started February 10 and will continue through March 27.

The 1964 program will be more attractive to many producers than the 1963 program, but basically the program will be about the same. It will be available for the three feed grains corn, barley, and grain sorghum, and participation will be entirely voluntary although price-support eligibility for the three crops will depend on such grower-participation.

Two major improvements in the 1964 feed grain program, as compared with previous programs, are: (1) A producer may divert as much as 50 percent of his feed grain base acreage (this was 40 percent in 1963), and those who divert 40 percent or more of their base acreage will receive diversion payments at the maximum rate for all acres diverted. (The maximum acreage diversion will continue to be 25 acres if this is more than 50 percent of the base.)

Two rates of diversion payment will be offered, but the higher rate should apply to more acres under the 1964 program: The minimum rate is again based upon one-fifth of the county's total price-support rate; the maximum or higher rate is based on one-half of the support rate. If the operator signs up to divert 40 percent or more of his feed grain base, the higher rate will apply to all the acreage diverted. If less than 40 percent is diverted, the minimum rate will apply to 20 percent of the acreage diverted and the higher rate to the between 20 and 40 percent.

Farmers who take part in the program will be eligible for diversion and price-support payments, and for price-support loans on their entire 1964 production of the three grains. The price-support payment will be made to all participants in the program who plant the feed grains for harvest, and they will be made regardless of the use made of the grain. The producer may sell the grain or
