Moore
He said that his sole purpose in seeking the governorship was to make as good a governor for all the people of North Carolina as possible. He said that he had no other political ambition, no other motive, except to be the very best governor possible.

This could be done by increased industrialization by attracting industry and expanding our existing industries. He promised a full-time industry expert in each congressional district to seek the particular industry suitable for that section.

He promised an accelerated highway program and to divide the highway funds over the entire State.

The second main objective of his administration would be to increase the farm income of the State to improve the living standards of the farm people, that farming and industry can go forward hand in hand to build a greater North Carolina.

Robert L. West, who heads Moore's campaign in Warsaw, introduced Ellis V. Vestal, his Kenansville worker, who introduced Judge Moore. Mrs. John D. Robinson of Wallace, State Manager of the Woman's Division for Judge Moore, was recognized as was Mrs. Winifred T. Wells, who is organizing his vote getting machinery at Wallace. Judge Moore's charming and gracious wife, the former Jeanette Coulter, was introduced to the audience. She is an outstanding leader in Democratic Party work and a real politician in her own right shaking every person's hand in attendance.

Judge Moore is 57, enlisted in the Army during the war and was attached to a Paratroop Division for 2 years overseas, is a Methodist Steward and Sunday School Superintendent and Teacher. Judge and Mrs. Moore have two children and two grandchildren.

Chamber of Commerce Endorses IEC
The Rose Hill Chamber of Commerce at its meeting Tuesday unanimously went on record as approving and encouraging the efforts of the Education Committee of the Industrial and Agricultural Council of Duplin County, the County Commissioners, Board of Education and other interested citizens in their endeavor to obtain an IEC for Dupin. Hope was expressed that such efforts will continue to be successful and that such an institution will ultimately lead to a place of higher learning for our young people as well as our older citizens that Dupin will be proud of. The Chamber also urged that area citizens continue to "Clean Up and Paint Up" for the benefit of industrial visitors to our county as well as self-satisfaction.
