 nominate a man who will represent them as a protector of their rights rather than as a "bag man" to buy their votes with their money. It is not popular in this country to stand for election, because it has become fashionable to spend huge sums to get an office that pays little.

My record is clear. I am a Thomas Jefferson Liberal who is the so-called Liberal say is a Conservative.

My program is based on a return to fiscal responsibility through balanced budgets with debt retirement, not meddling in other people's business as suggested by the Founding Fathers, and eliminating the government's competition with private business. Once these things are done the individual can get a better hold on his pocketbook to do better at lower cost what the Congressional "bag men" tell him the government should do for him.

The politicians in charge are through a barrage of propaganda trying to sell the idea of swapping freedom of individual choice for a mess of pottage called Government Aid. I urge those who are concerned to vote for the candidate they think understands the problem."

 are forecast as follows: Type 11 (Old and Middle Belts) 164,000 acres as compared with 182,000 acres for 1963; Type 12 (Eastern Belt) 201,000 acres against last year's 223,000; and Type 13 (Border Belt) 50,000 acres against 55,500 acres for last year.

Burley producers have expressed intentions of planting 10,100 acres, or 900 acres less than were harvested last year, but 100 acres more than the 1958-62 average.

UNITED STATES: If intentions expressed by producers to set 1,075,900 acres of all tobaccos are followed, 1964 acreage will be the lowest since 1908. Such an acreage is 8.5 percent below 1963 and nearly 7 percent below the 1957-62 average.

Largely because of a 10 percent decrease in allotments, the intended acreage of flue-cured tobacco, at 626,700 acres, is 10 percent below 1963, and the lowest since 1932. The 5-year average is 690,560 acres. Using an average yield per acre with an allowance for trend, production of flue-cured leaf from this year's intended acreage would be 1,253 million pounds, compared with about 1,360 million produced in 1963.

Influenced by a 10 percent reduction in most farm allotments, expected plantings of 300,000 acres of burley are 22,300 below the acreage harvested in 1963. During the 1955-62 period, the area harvested 310,200 acres.

 papermen so proud of jumbled desks. It seems to me they ought to be ashamed. I have heard it said that an orderly desk is the sign of an orderly mind. It follows, doesn't it, that a disorderly desk is a sign of a mixed-up mind."

Dear Percy: Newspapermen don't make a shambles of their desks on purpose. They are always striving to straighten it all out and clean it all up, but they are always falling behind. More things are happening all the time. And they don't like to throw things away; and filing is onerous.

They are not proud of the chaos that besets them. They are eternally trying to bring some order out of that chaos. Newspapermen and press secretaries do not aim for disarray. The disarray just catches up with them. You ought to see the desk when they are not there to fight it. It's worse than usual - on Mondays and days following holidays and vacations.

It may not be necessarily so that an orderly desk signifies an orderly mind and a messy desk a mixed-up brain. It could be that in many cases an empty desk connotes an empty mind, and a desk piled high and every which way with papers, letters typed sheets, books, magazines, rulers, pastepots, scissors, pencils, pictures, big envelopes and packets of indistinguishable but valuable notations, may be a monument to a busy mind. Show me an editor or a press agent with an immaculate desk top, and I'll show you a hypocrite who has got the stuff stashed away in his desk drawers.
