Social Security

The theme of Senior Citizens Month 1964 is "Opportunities for Older Americans," and I know of one Southern gentleman who really took advantage of his opportunities.

At the age of 65, Colonel Harlan Sanders of Shelbyville, Kentucky, was forced out of the restaurant business when a super-highway bypassed his place that specialized in his own recipe for fried chicken. The Colonel paid off his debts, packed up his recipe and his pots and pans, set off on a tour of the U. S. - on exactly $105, the amount of his first social security check, and all the money he had in the world.

During that tour, Colonel Sanders didn't just sight-see; he stopped at countless restaurants and demonstrated his secret preparation for fried chicken. And he gave away franchises for this preparation, telling each restaurant proprietor, "Pay me out of the profits when you get the money."

In this way he distributed franchises throughout the country, and, at the end of 7 years, the Colonel's fried chicken had made him a millionaire and the proprietor of the largest food franchise business in the United States.

Colonel Sanders appeared recently on the TV program, "I've Got a Secret," and revealed that he has sold his business for 2 million - quite an increase over the $105 he started out with. Now at the age of 74, he's going to "go er's Day with a dinner at the home of her son, Mr. Bodell Outlaw, near Albemarle. Attending were Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Outlaw and family, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Noble and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Noble and family and Mr. and Mrs. Phil Outlaw and Celeste, all of Kinston; Mr. and Mrs. Raeford Blizard and son, Richlands; Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Dupree and children, of Goldsboro; Mr. and Mrs. Linwood Gills and Miss Glyn Benson of Petersburg, Va.; Mr. and Mrs. George Benson, of Deep Run, Mr. Robert O'Brian and children of Rose Hill and Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Outlaw of Albemarle.

back on social security. And even that has increased: as a result of his self-employment income over the past 9 years, the Colonel's monthly payment will amount to $127, the maximum payable to a retired worker under social security.

You see, Colonel Sanders was alert to the opportunities open to him. While he still felt like it, he worked; and when he decided to quit, he notified the Social Security Administration and had his benefits refigured to take account of his earnings after age 65.

Every senior citizen can't make a million, but many who continue working after age 65 may be able to increase their social security benefits. Check with the social security district office at 311 East Walnut St. in Goldsboro for further information and ask for booklet number 23 entitled, "If You Work While You Get Social Security Benefits."
