".... across the State House in the House of Representatives, Speaker Clifton Blue of Moore County presided with impartiality and precision. He kept a firm rein on proceedings, but allowed every courtesy to all members of the House. His committee appointments showed no bias to one group or another.

There is a lesson to be drawn from this by electric cooperative members. It does make a difference who is lieutenant governor of the state. When you vote next year for someone to fill that office, be certain you are voting for someone who at least is unbiased—if not favorable—toward the rural electrification program."

Dear Mrs. Grady:

In May, 1964, our firm held a sale on new Ramblers and ran a series of four half-page advertisements in your paper. We used no other media of advertising to test the response we might receive from your paper. We are happy to report that this proved to be the most successful sale in our history.

We would like to express our appreciation for the fine cooperation provided us by your advertising department in presenting eye-catching layouts for our approval and use. We know that people read the ads because they brought the paper in with them, and purchased a new Rambler.

This month represents our fifth anniversary and, because of the fine response we received from our adevrtising in your newspaper in May, we are holding an even bigger sale, with even better buys and discounts on new and used cars and International trucks. We are using only your newspaper for this promotion and, for the first time, we are using larger ads in color.

We appreciate the availability of your newspaper and the fine services rendered to help us get the most response for our money. With the continued use of your paper, we anticipate the largest volume of sales in 1964 in the history of our com-
