P&H Hill, N. C.

Demonstration Club member of Davie County, has been busy at her sewing machine. Mrs. Smith made a child's ensemble for the local Grange sewing contest. She won first place at the local and state contests and the ensemble will now be sent to the national contest. Mrs. Ostine West, home economics agent, says Mrs. Smith not only excels in sewing but also works part time on the county bookmobile and is active in civic and church activities.

HOME TOUR
Some 70 women in Bertie County recently went on a tour of homes. Mrs. Lenore Walston, home economics agent, says the women observed the window treatments, room arrangements and other construction features that had been discussed at monthly demonstrations this year. Mrs. Walston reports they included several different types of homes on the tour such as the small compact one story home, the split level and the two story.

USE OF SURPLUS FOOD
The Wade Home Demonstration Club began the educational program for recipients of surplus foods in Cumberland County. They reached 59 families the first day. According to Mrs. Era Robinson, home economics agent, the club members prepare new dishes and show different ways of preparing the foods so the families can learn to serve well balanced meals. The foods leaders bring in freshly prepared samples of the foods each day.

4-H LEADERS
The Sandpipers 4-H Club in Onslow County now has a sponsor. Miss Sara Asbell, home economics agent, says the Morris Landing Home Demonstration Club has assumed the sponsorship of the club. Linda Martin, a junior leader and Pam Thomas, president of the club continued to meet with the young 4-H'ers until they got a sponsor. Miss Asbell says members of the sponsoring club take turns meeting with the 4-H members and helping them with their project work.

HOUSE FURNISHING SEMINAR
Carpets and resilient floor coverings received major attention at a house furnishings seminar in Iredell County. Mrs. Nancy Myers, home economics agent, had someone to discuss the various carpet fibers and give information on choosing design and color in carpets. Next on the program was a discussion of various types of floor coverings. By observing and studying a large display of samples, the women were able to find out the advantages and disadvantages of the different types.

COMMUNITY SERVICE
Home Demonstration Club members are most generous with their time and talent, as shown in their many community service projects. Mrs. Mary Ray, home economics agent, reports the Buncombe County club members have made laundry bags to be used at the USVA Hospital at Oteen. Some 500 bags have recently been made by the group.

FORCED RETIREMENT AT 65 IS NOT RIGHT, THIS MAN SAYS

Why age 65? Compulsory retirement could have been set at 55, or 60, or 72. But it was set for most people at 65. Why? W. H. Lancaster, who retired happily enough last year at age 65, is fretting for an answer. "I know how we got the idea from Europe," he says. "I know how the U.S. Government accepted it, and how business bought it. But why age 65? Why any one particular age for everybody?" Mr. Lancaster thinks it is not enough to defend the practice by saying it is a tradition, a widespread practice, and a formula that is working well. "You could say duck-hunting is a tradition and is working well—it is, except for the ducks. Retirement at 65 is working well except for the 65-year-old people."

is crazy to believe that a man's usefulness on his job ceases with his 65th birthday—this can vary from age 42 to 80. It would be difficult to prove that age 65 would be the right age, even if compulsory retirement is right. This indeed is an awkward age . . . too old to start over and too young to stop . . . Mr. Lancaster cited the growing bill taxpayers are having to pay because of people being retired—Social Security, Old-Age Assistance, welfare homes and hospitals, and perhaps soon some form of Medicare. "Only a fraction of this would be required if those who wanted to could keep their jobs."

"I do not believe costs and taxes will change the retirement practice," Mr. Lancaster continues. "But I think the country's conscience may. I think the Civil Rights bill is setting the stage for it. If the people of the country come around to believing they cannot discriminate against the race, the color, or the religion of a man, they are going to start wondering whether they can discriminate against his age. Whether they can tell a man who is not ready for it, can't afford it, and is afraid, that he must give up his job. Just because he is 65 years old."

"You can patch this problem to death—with Social Security, Medicare, charity, and platitudes. But it won't go away. And the American people are soon going to have some second thoughts about the thing."

members have made laundry bags to be used at the USVA Hospital at Oteen. Some 500 bags have recently been made by the group.
