Was talking with Mr. Holland ho at one time was head of the F. H. A. Department in Duplin County, Mr. Holland was artending the awards banquet for Mr. Bill Costin of Warsaw, the North Carolina F.H.A. Farmer of the Year.

It was nice talking with MR.
Holland again, I knew that he had always lived in Goldsboro, so I asked him if he were still so I asked him if he were still living there. He said No, his work with the state F.H.A. office had caused him to have to move to Raleigh. He said that he and his family were enjoying living in Raleigh. But, his daughter at one time was visiting her neighbor. The neighbor asked her how she was enjoying living in Raleigh to which she immediately replied. 'I love it, but my parents are the ones who are mal-adjusted.'

Freedom Of Choice

Our Eastern North Carolina Press Association met in Kinston last week end, For one part of the program, Albert Stroud, who is association with the Kinston Free Press and president of the Eastern Press Association, planed a tour of Casell Training School.

Everyone in North Carolina should visit Caswell Training School and see the wonderful job that is being done for our unfortunate citizens. The buildings are so clean, well equipped and the immates so happy that one almost forgets at times that they are visiting an institution.

The trumable immutes have a narvelous program set up for nem. They have a model house in which they learn to furnish, lean and care for the home in every way. The model home is bedroom, bath, living room and combination dining room and ldtohen, in the Home Economics kitchen, In the Home Economics Department several of the girls had on display their E aster suits which they had made, They were very pretty, Some of the bovs are learning to make shirts.
The girls are taught to sew on commercial machines that are used in factories so that when they are able to leave, they can get jobs and become self-supporting citizens.

Another interesting department was the shop. In this shop the boys are trained in ment was the shop. In this shop the boys are trained in welding, making wooden trays and many other trades in which they are able to transfer when they leave the hospital.

In our tour we saw class rooms, dormitories, dining room, kitchen and the gymnasium. One of the instructors told us that the gymnasium was one of the high spots of campus life. In there the dances are held and the immates enjoy the dances. Also movies are shown twice each week, and the patients look forward to the shows.

In one of the dormitories for the cripples, girls dressed as Easter bunnles were giving a party with dancing, singing and refreshments to entertain the patterns. Everyone seemed to be having a most enjoyable time.

Yes, I will say that I left feeling much happier than I was when I entered the school. The State is doing a wonderful job of taking care of our mentally sick at Caswell.

Easter Seal Program Appeal

Mrs. Leatrice Rivenbark of Wallace announces that she is in the process of getting appeal letters in the mail for the Duplin County Society for crippled children and adults - the "E as-

ter Seal Program.'
There will be no soliciting of funds except by mail. This will be the only chance you will have to contribute and without your help we cannot carry on this workk, she states. Mrs. Rivenbark is county chairman and Mr. Irvin Graham is treasurer, They have headed this program for the past seven years.

A Warsaw farm family, the first in Duplin County to be recognized as Farm Family Of The Year, was honored Friday, March 17, in a special ceremony at the Duplin Country Club. The William J. Costin family of Route 1, Warsaw was selected to receive the honor by the Farmers Home Administration. Dr. J. Lem Stokes II, Chairman of the State FHA Advisory Committee presided, Con-gressman David Henderson made the address before a capacity crowd of 300 persons. A placque and other gifts were presented to the family. The Costin family consisting of Mr. and Mrs., Costin, William Jr. (Bill), Gail, Angela and Wanda, sincerely believe that helping others is the only way of life. Starting as tenant farmers and a desire to acquire a farm of their own, their first purchase was 30 acres. The adjoining farm became available but purchasing money was not. They applied for a loan in several places but the loan was turned down. Then they applied at FHA. He shudders to think what would have happened, had they too turned him down.

The story since then has been one of a combined effort of a family who set goals, and worked to reach them. Their income has been boosted more than 40% by reaching these goals.

The Costins live in a modest white frame house nested in a beautiful background of long leaf pines The house has been extended across the back to include a family room, bathroom and bedroom. The original part has been movernized and provides ample space for work

And they do work, at many things. Mr. and Mrs. Costin are leaders of the Shamrock 4-H Club in Warsaw where Bill and Gall are outstanding 4-H'ers. Mr. Costin has been singled out many times to re-ceive awards for his outstanding leadership.

They are active members of the Warsaw Methodist Church where Mr. Costin has taught a Sunday School Class for more than ten years. He has held several offices in the church, He thinks that probably the onperson who exerted the greatest spiritual influence in his life was Mrs. Ella V. Pridgen, of Warsaw.

Hobbies as such, are not pursued by the Costins, but they received a satisfying award from the work they do with young Continued to page 8
