(The following story appeared in the 60th Birthday Edition of the Sanford Herald. Beats the weddings of today.)
How did the society editors write the social news in the early days at Sanford?
For a sample of the style of writing which was in high fashion in 1891 consider this write-up of the wedding of Miss Annie Harrington of Jonesboro and Dr. J. E. Caviness of Sanford which appeared in The Leader on April 23, 1891.

"On April 21st at the residence of the bride's father, Mr. Minter Harrington, Dr. J. E. Caviness of Sanford and Miss Annie Harrington were married. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. S. Chaffin. After partaking of an excellent dinner, the bride and groom accompanied by a few friends, left for Sanford, which place they reached late in the afternoon of the same day where the mother of Dr. Caviness and Miss Annie Harrington, assisted by some of the good ladies of Sanford, had prepared hospitality for an evening of enjoyment for the many friends who were invited to be present. We speak from personal knowledge when we say that the supper was good enough for the most fastidious taste, and was served in regular old-fashioned, hospitable style. Upon leaving the dining room (which we were led to do), the merry party repaired to the parlor, and engaged in lively conversation. Messrs. Scott, McElroy and Chaffin were the guests of Dr. Caviness and the party and Mrs. White at the organ, discarding sweet and soothing music, which could not fail to lend enchantment to the occasion. At a late hour the party dispersed, each one wishing for Dr. Caviness and his accomplished wife, a long life of happiness and success. The LEADER joins in the many good wishes. May their bosom ever peacefully ride the billowy sea of this life and at last may they anchor in the untroubled waters of the haven of rest, "beyond the swelling flood."
This social event apparently was recorded in two newspapers. THE EXPRESS wrote about the same event, but much more briefly. For the party at Dr. Caviness' residence this paper called it, "an ovation." And added "The Dr. was not only happy himself, but made quite a host of his friends happy who were with him Tuesday night. The EXPRESS extends congratulations and wishes for a pleasant, prosperous journey through life."

Warsaw's Home Federal Savings and Loan Robbed

Artist Conception Of Robber

Home Federal Savings and Loan Employees, Mrs. Coleen Martin, and Mrs. Shirley Costin, described to artist James Saunders the robber who took $2142, from the Warsaw office, Friday afternoon, at gunpoint. They believe that Mr. Saunders has produced a real likeness, especially about the forehead, eyes and nose. He was very dark, probably an Indian or Negro, and was neat in his appearance, and emphatic in his speech.

The Warsaw Branch of Home Federal Savings and Loan Association was relieved of $2142 in a brazen Friday afternoon robbery. The lone bandit escaped in the busy traffic on highway 117 about 3 o'clock. Described as "a big man - not fat - just big, neat, and very dark an Indian or Negro," entered the loan office alone. He was wearing a rain hat and coat, both brown. Two employees, Mrs. Shirley Costin and Mrs. Coleen Martin were in the office. In reply to Mrs. Costin's "May I help you", the bandit said "Yes, give me all your money." A long barreled silver pistol in his hand emphasized the command. Both ladies admit that they were frightened, actually petrified with fear. Evidently they weren't moving to suit the unwanted caller and he said, "Give me the money or I will kill every d---one of you." The money from both cages was stuffed in his clothing and according to his instruction both ladies stretched out on the floor while he made his get away. Mrs. Martin called the Warsaw policemen who arrived on the scene almost immediately. Manager Robert Kornegay was in a back office and was not aware of what was taking place. Policeman Douglas Townsend and chief Perry Smith called the Sheriff's Department. Sheriff Elwood Revelle arrived at the scene and they, in connection with the State and the Federal Authorities are continuing the investigation. A nearby resident said a man fitting the above description ran across a field and got into a two-tone brown Cadillac, a 1965 or 1966 model. This same car was seen leaving town at a high rate of speed headed toward Faison.

Incest Charge Against Former Duplin Man

A Wayne resident of about three weeks is being held in the county jail in lieu of $10,000 bond on an incest charge against his 14 year old daughter. James Elwood Best, Rt. 2, Dudley, native of the Beaufort section of Duplin County was arrested Saturday by the Wayne County Sheriff's Department. He was reported to the Duplin County Sheriff, Elwood Revelle who in turn notified the Wayne officers since Best is no longer a resident of Duplin County.

The Duplin County official was told by the child that her father forced her to submit to him and that he did assault her at their home Saturday afternoon. The attack was reportedly witnessed by a sister. Waiting until the father went to sleep, the children fled to a neighbor's house, who in turn took the children to their grandmother's who lives in the Kenansville area. The mother was not at home when the assault took place.

MAY - SENIOR CITIZENS MONTH

(In connection with Senior Citizens Month, this literary gem, which is framed and has a very important place on the wall at the nurses desk in the South Wing of Duplin General Hospital seems most appropriate. There is probably more truth here than most of us not-quite-senior-citizens realize. R. Wells)

Beatitudes For Friends Of The Aged

By Ester Mary Walker
Blessed are they who understand my faltering step and palsied hand,
Blessed are they who know that my ears today must strain to catch the things they say.
Blessed are they who seem to know that my eyes are dim and my wits are slow.
Blessed are they who look away when coffee is spilled at the table today.
Blessed are they with a cherry smile who stop to chat for a little while.
Blessed are they who know the ways to bring back memories of yesterdays.
Blessed are they who know I'm at a loss to find the strength to carry the cross.
Blessed are they who never say "you've told that story twice today."
Blessed are they who make it known that I'm loved, respected, and not alone.
Blessed are they who ease the days on my journey home, in loving ways.
