Last week we had a story about red fox or foxes attacking a farmer in the field, Guess what this week??????

Sandra Burnette of Kenansville tells me that she was riding in the new housing development behind the hospital last Sunday afternoon. She saw what she thought was three black dogs, tumbling and playing in the grass. Sandra got out of her car and clapped her hands and called to the dogs, when to her unter amazement she discovered they were three black baby bears. Sandra lost no time in getting back in her car and doing a disappearing act, as she told me she thought the Mother bear was nearby. To be sure, we don't have real live bears in the twon of Kenansville. live bears in the twon of Ke-

Dr. Davis Urges

Dr. Rachel Davis of Kinston made aforceful Democratic women of Duplin County on Tuesday night of last week. She asked the group to stop on Memorial day and think of the sung heroes and the unsung heroes who have filled places in the parties. 'In the last 50 years our nation has come to know a continuous period of Military involvement, and I am afraid we are experiencing, maybe, the prologue of the III World War. The Democrats have sat in the seat of responsibility more times and longer than the Republican party. This has made us proud and also vulnerable..., We have seen the restlessness among the young, immaturity of thought regarding the sacredness of the Government. There never has been the need before that our nation has now for Nationalism and statesmanship. In this world of chaos and instability our administration is having to do things which make it unpopular.' Dr. Davis went further in saying that citizenship demands personal sacrifice, and urged the Democratic women of the county to have a more active organization to continue the county to have a more active organization to continue the Continued to Page 2

few hours later from injuries apparently received in awreck, Clifford James Williams, 45, white male, of Route 2, Beulaville, died in surgery in a Wilmington Hospital early Monday morning, Death was attributed to a blood clot on the brain.
