The lowly vulture, also some-times known as "Pallbearers of the sky" conducted an unsus-pecting person to a badly de-composed body early Saturday morning in the Hallsville area of Durile Gaussian of Duplin County. A farmer of the section, Da-vid Pearsall told the investivid Pears all told the investi-gating officers that he was checking pulpwood about 8:30 Saturday when an unusually large number of buzzards at-tracted his attention. Upon investigating he found the re-mains of a body. The Sheriffs office was notified. Sheriff Elwood Revelle said that two of the deputies, Al-fred Basden, and Jack Albert-son, along with SEI Agent War-ren Campbell and Coroner H, B, McNeil were called to the scene where the body was located,

FLASH FIRE

Kenansville Firemen were called to the city dump Tues-day afternoon to extinguish a fire in a truck.

The truck owned by R. G. Quinn, and operated by his son-in-law Bobby Howard, was loaded with kapok, a product used by Reeves Brothers Inc. in their manufactury of pillows. How ard is an employee of the company and was presumably dumping trash for them.

A spark from already burning trash on the dump, evi-dentally ignited the load which was consumed as was the body and rack of the two-and-one-half ton Chevrolet truck. The motor and tires were apparently unharmed.

This was the second time in almost as many days that fire has hit Mr. Quinn. A turkey house, cleaned out and awaiting a delivery of baby poults was destroyed by fire Friday night on the Quinn farm, near Sa-recta recta.

ght. The fire which occured during an electrical storm about 9:30 Sunday night was reported by Mr. Phillips to have started near the switch box. Local fire departments ans-wered the call, but because of headstart the house was gutted, and everything was listed a total loss. The building was occupied by Robert Hodges Vann, his wife and four children. Vann, who is and four children. Vann, who is employed by J. P. Stevens Co.; was home alone at the time,
