

Color Highlights Fashion Show

This "back to school" outfit was modeled by Jean Murphy, who carried a lovely red "lots" bag. Her blue dress of light weight wool featured a waist line. Her casual coat is a white all weather. (Photo by Ruth Wells).

Mary Morrison modeled this lovely dressy dress, appropriate for church or afternoon teas. The A-line emphasis simplicity with added fullness provided in the skirt by soft pleats. The plain neckline and 3/4 sleeves allow the garment to be dressed up or down. Long gloves and a fur hat complete the outfit. (Photo by Ruth Wells).

Color splashed profusely across the stage as Kramer's Fashion Show models showed what the well dressed ladies will wear this fall. Stephens Styling Studio styled the hairdos and Stallings Florist did the flower arrangements. The Fashion Show was held in Rockfish Country Club house, on Thursday night. Fashion Show was held in Rockfish Country Club house, on Thursday night. Mrs. Max Offerman was narrator and gave a brief preview of the fall colors, styles and materials. She introduced the first group of models who paraded back to school, career girls and sports dresses. Colorful orange, green and large prints predominated. Next the small and large children paraded party dresses, play dresses, boy's jeans and sports clothes. All typical of what the young-fry will wear. Winter coats with fur and without fur were shown, along with large soft brim velours and roll back brim hats. Then the lovely dressy dresses and cocktail or "after-five" dresses were shown. Many of the lovely dresses were in light-weight woollens. Buttons are taking a prominent place in fall styles with lot of back interest. Door prizes were given with Edna Wells winning a $15.00 permanent from Stephens Styling Studio; Patricia Cavanaugh a $5.00 Gift Certificate; Cindy Brice a $15.00 Gift Certificate and Tonya Fountain a $5.00 Gift Certificate, all from Kramer's Store. Mrs. Curtis Robinson

won a $7.50 flower arrangement from Stallings Florist.
