Ruth Wells and I did enjoy the Poultry Jubilee at Rose Hill on Saturday. Before the day was over we ran into Ruby Campbell, Winford and Joan Howard and Annie Louise and Rodney Andrews - practically the entire staff.

But Ruth and I felt real important, we were escorted around town by two Patrolmen who found us a nice place to take pictures, on top of Mr. Scott's pick-up truck. We had an excellent view of the parade and could get good pictures.

I envied Mae Spicer and Lots

Whaley Rest Home Dedicated

A quiet and reverent crowd stood in the hot Indian summer sun and heard the Rev. Mr. Paul Mull read Psalm 71:9 "Cast me not off in the time of old age, forsake me not when my strength falleth."

The ribbon was cut by a fragile little lady in a wheelchair, a prayer was said for the residents of the home, and interested friends.

And the Whaley Rest Home was dedicated Sunday afternoon October 8.

Mr. Mull paid tribute to Mrs. Whaley, founder of the Whaley Rest Home, by comparing her with the prophets of old, who dedicated their lives to the benefit of their fellow man.

Hundreds of people representing every area of Duplin County attended the dedication ceremony and inspected the home.

They were more than pleased with what they saw.

The fire resistant building is veneered in lovely antique brick.

The lobby is spacious and comfortable, the dining area, with family size tables, is bright and cheerful.

The efficient stainless steel kitchen is large enough to serve meals to a crowd. And all of that is very nice. The local contractor Mr. D. J. Fussell did himself proud.

But the part that is particularly appealing are the bed rooms. They are bright, cheerful, comfortable and beautifully furnished.

It is a dream come true for Mrs. Whaley, and for the whole population of the area that such a place is available.
