In Africa, the natives practice the strange custom of beating the ground with clubs and uttering wild, blood-curdling yells. Anthropologists call this a form of primitive self-expression. However, in America we have another name for it... golf.

Income Tax Information

MEDICAL EXPENSE ERRORS

GREENSBORO, N. C. - Errors in reporting medical expenses meant smaller refunds - or additional taxes to pay - for many taxpayers last year said J. E. Wall, District Director of Internal Revenue for North Carolina.

To avoid errors on 1967 returns, Mr. Wall advised taxpayers to read the 1040 instruction booklet carefully before they file.

A common error made by taxpayers in reporting medical expenses was in the handling of medicine and drug expenses. These expenses should be added to the taxpayer's other medical expenses only to the extent they exceed 1 percent of adjusted gross income.

"Some taxpayers," Mr. Wall said, "try to deduct their drug costs in excess of 1 per cent of their income. Instead, they should add this excess to their other medical expenses, which are subject to a 3 percent limitation."

The 1040 instructions explain what is and is not deductible and also how the expenses should be reported. Changes in the tax law effective for the 1967 tax year are covered in these instructions.
