The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a semi-fitted A-line satin gown with yoke, elbow-length scalloped sleeves, and cathedral train of imported Italian lace. Her shoulder-length veil of illusion was attached to a fully-opened flower made of the same lace and satin. She carried a bouquet of white orchids and phalaenopsis. Both the gown and veil were made by the bride's aunt, Mrs. J. C. Thomas of Wilmington, N. C. All of the bride's attendants were dressed identically in formal gowns of yellow bonded crepe with empire bodices and trains of gold floral brocade. They wore hats of yellow crepe flowers attached to bows of the floral brocade. They carried bouquets of deep yellow roses tied with green velvet ribbon. J. C. Thomas, uncle of the bride, sang "Because," "O Promise Me," and "The Lord's Prayer," accompanied by Mrs. W. L. Register, who also played the traditional wedding march and other selections.

the experience of being a North Carolina Collegian and, of course, is glad to live with her sister and brother-in-law and on week ends, with their parents in Rose Hill. She is a very pretty sixteen year old brunette and we predict will be very popular with her school mates.

When asked her impressions of things North American she answered that she liked the people very much and finds them very friendly. She shows a great interest in the many large shopping centers she sees, and is amazed at the number and variety of electrical appliances the North American housewives have that make their chores easier.
