niture department. All work done by the company is guaranteed against defective material and workmanship for one year.

Mrs. Stroud disclosed that the charges for service rendered varies considerably.

"The size of a chair or sofa and the customer's choice of material are the major factors considered when making a cost estimate," she said. In as far as labor is concerned, the cost of upholstering a lounge chair ranges from $15 to $20. The labor cost for upholstering a sofa is in the neighborhood of $40.

"Every item of furniture brought to us for upholstering is torn down to the bare wood," said Mrs. Stroud. "We don't charge anything for minor repairs to the frame of a chair or sofa or to the springs in a cushion. Also, we re-finish all exposed woodwork."

Mrs. Stroud also disclosed that the company will travel to any home within 30 miles of Pink Hill to make free estimates and to display samples of upholstery materials.

The company, which is located on Front Street, will be open from 7:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. six days a week. Company representatives will be available at other home appointments.

He pointed out that he was the only candidate with law enforcement experience, having served as solicitor of City Court in Raleigh, and he promised if elected he would use every means at his command to restore respect and protection to the law enforcement officers.

Realizing that many people have lost respect for the fundamental principals on which this nation was founded, he pledged to make available all State Highway Patrolmen, National Guardsmen, or what ever might be needed to subdue riots and "put down hoodlums."

He cited the need for a Medical Center in the eastern part of North Carolina as well as the western, which would attract doctors to the area. He also said the State should consider a system of drainage for small communities and assist them in water and sewage problems. He would also appoint a farm committee, representing not only the tobacco farmer, but peanut, cotton and dairy farmers as well, to advise him on problems concerning all types of farmers.

Mr. Craft introduced Mr. Lison Summerlin of Warsaw, and announced that he would be the County Farm Campaign manager. E. C. (Gene) Thompson III of Warsaw and Mrs. Marie Barfield of Faison were appointed to work with the young voters.
