This man can tell you about "the good old days"...

W. L. Howell, M.D., of Ellerbe, was a young man back in 1910 when he first hung out his shingle as a general practitioner. They were the good old days when a doctor treated most patients at home—after a brisk horse-and-buggy ride.

"Doc" Howell can tell you about the good old days of electricity, too. Fact is, he was timekeeper at CP&L's Blewett Falls Plant his first summer out of college. Later, he was a member of the Town Board when electricity was first brought to Ellerbe.

Today, "Doc" Howell is one of the owners of Carolina Power & Light Company. His investment in our Company plus that of thousands of other shareholders has enabled CP&L to build a modern electric system that provides dependable electric service in the home and on the job—any hour of the day or night.

In fact, electricity is so much a part of the fabric of everyday life it usually is taken for granted. That didn't just happen. We planned it that way. And we are planning right now for your needs tomorrow.
