

Two Persons Injured In Hit And Run

Two people were injured when two cars collided on Sunday night at about 9:30 p.m. on highway 11 on Goshen Swamp Bridge, before reaching B. F. GRADY School.

Injured were William Freeman Jarman of Route 1, Leland and Mary Jane Perry, 13, also of Route 1, Leland. Each received severe lacerations about the face and head. Mr. Jarman was admitted to Duplin General Hospital and Mary Jane Perry was transferred to a hospital in Wilmington. Also riding in the car was Mr. Jarman's daughter, Becky, who was injured. Mary Jane was her girlfriend.

Mrs. Wells

 Mrs. Wells is married to J. (Joe) Wells of Route 1, Kenansville and she lives with her husband and his sister, Mrs. Katie Wells Rowell, on a farm about six miles northeast of Kenansville.

Several correspondence and extension courses have been successfully completed by Mrs. Wells to keep her abreast of modern record keeping method and office procedure.

She has been active in the Democratic Women's Club of Duplin County, serving on the board of directors. An active Presbyterian, she is a deacon and treasurer of Grove Church.

Due to the assistance of the Sheriff's Department, Owens and his passenger were later picked up and charged with leaving the scene of the accident involving personal injury, driving under the influence, no operators license.

Patrolman E. R. Kirby who investigated the accident was assisted by Deputies Jernigan and Proctor and Pat. Joyner and Johnson.

Med. Auxiliary

 Southern Medical Association is composed of sixteen southern states and the District of Columbia. Medical Societies and Auxiliaries all across our nation have begun to see the wonderful possibilities of such a day to honor doctors, and to observe it. It has been North Carolina's privilege to be among the first to give great significance to this day.

Dr. Gooding

A native of Lenoir County, Dr. Gooding grew up on a farm with a burning ambition to serve humanity and alleviate suffering.

Upon graduation from Kinston High School, he received an A.B. degree from the University of North Carolina, where he also had two years at the University Medical College, transferring to Tulane University in New Orleans. He interned at U. S. Marine Hospital also in New Orleans.

Dr. Gooding came to Kenansville in August 1929 and entered private practice and has probably contributed more medical aid to low income families than any member of his profession in Duplin County.

In 1931, following an epidemic of Small Pox in Duplin County, a very small amount of money was appropriated by the county to eradicate the disease by vaccinating the school children.

Realizing that this was a step in the right direction, but only a step, Dr. Gooding vaccinated children and adults at a personal financial sacrifice.

The horrible disease has continued to this day to be conspicuously absent from the county due to the efforts and concern of Dr. Gooding.

The State Board of Health, through Dr. Gooding's efforts and coordination, set up a clinic at the Kenansville School and removed tonsils during the hard hit depression years.

Army type cots were moved into the building, providing bedding for the patients.

Dr. Gooding screened the patients, and prepared them for operation.

A surgeon was provided by the State Board of Health, which did the actual operation.

As soon as the mass surgery was completed the surgeon departed, leaving the patients in Dr. Gooding's care.

The first year fifty tonsillectomies were performed. These came from various financial brackets, some very

These came from various financial brackets, some very substantial people, but money was short with everybody during the depression.

Fifty patients seemed like a giant project, but so desperately were these services needed that it was continued several years. The peak was reached when 800 tonsillectomies were performed in one year.

Not a single patient was lost which is an enviable record even on the part of the most efficient hospitals.

Dr. Gooding did his best, but he did not claim all of the credit. "Sure we (the surgeon and I) did our best," said Dr. Gooding, "but the Divine Physician was on our side."

This general practitioner kept account of the babies that he delivered until the number reached 5,000. "It was time to quit counting then," he said.

Most of these deliveries were at the patients home, and made without the assistance of even a nurse.

His reputation in Obstetrics has brought patients back to him from many nearby and much larger towns, including Washington, D. C.

Believing that preventive medicine is equally important, Dr. Gooding served for several years as Health Officer, first in Duplin County and later in the Armed Forces. His tour of duty included the far east, Okinawa, later in Europe in France and Italy.

Upon separation from service he served as Health Officer in Sylvia, North Carolina, Jackson County.

Returning to his home in Kenansville in 1957 he opened his office on Front Street again a general practitioner, answering the call of suffering humanity day or night, rain, sleet or snow.

Now Chief of Staff of Duplin General Hospital, he is affiliated with the Duplin County Medical Society, and the North Carolina Medical Society, he is also a Presbyterian and Past Master of Saint Johns Masonic Lodge No 13 in Kenansville.

Just a regular American 364 days a year, but on the one remaining day, Saint Patrick's day, the Irish prevails, and always Dr. Gooding joins his clan in the wearing of the green, a green tie.

Dr. Gooding is married to the former Ella Long of Chapel Hill and they have four children.

Theresa, now Mrs. C. B. McNairy III, Goldsboro; Guy V. Gooding, Jr., Doctor of Plant Pathology at North Carolina State University at Raleigh; Dr. Stephen Council Gooding, a resident in Obstetrics and Gynecologist, General Hospital, Greenville, S.C. and Miss Sylvia Gooding, Secretary to the Director of the Center for Occupational Education at North Carolina State University at Raleigh.

The Goodings also have twelve grandchildren.

Governor Moore has designated March 30 as Doctor's Day in North Carolina. The Auxiliary to the Medical Profession in Duplin County has chosen as Doctor of the Day - Guy Vernon Gooding, Sr., a man dedicated to his profession, who has spent his life serving his fellow man.

Dead Animals

Poultry & Eggs

 A joint announcement by presidents of the two major regional groups, Albert Russo of Northeastern Egg and Poultry Producers Council, and Mays Montgomery, Southeastern Poultry and Egg Association, pointed to a busy and fruitful two days in the nation's capitol for both organizations.

"We covered much common ground on many issues of importance to the industry in both our areas," reported Russo and Montgomery, "and more importantly we are closer than ever to agreement on most of the problems that so badly need uniformity of action, especially in the egg industry with its myriad standards of size, weight, and quality varying from area to area."

Specifically, both Northeastern Egg and Poultry Producers Council and Southeastern Poultry and Egg Association issued the following joint resolutions:

(1) That the New York Mercantile Exchange be requested to upgrade trading standards to 85% A grade or better on top quality eggs traded on the exchange.

(2) At the same time it was recommended that combined tolerance for undergrades be reduced to a composite total of 8%.

(3) To discontinue the trading and reporting of fancy large and #1 medium eggs.

(4) To request that U.S.D.A. revise its egg price reporting system to quote prices of table eggs separately from those of hatching eggs. The present combined egg price reports renders such information useless to producers of both commercial and hatching eggs.

Coming - Youth Arama

If one looks outside, an air of Spring can surely be seen. That means Easter is just around the corner with a few warm days all buds seem to burst forth. The daffodils smile as the March winds blow them to and fro.

The youth of Beulaville are no exception, as well as planning a wardrobe for that special time of year, they are also planning for other things of great importance. Chorus sheets have been prepared, eye catching, original posters have been placed in store windows. Afternoons after school, are choir practice time. All in all our youth are much on the ball when it's something pertaining to our five churches here in town.
