In The "Good Old Days"

Again we see the first school owned. This picture was made about 1923 - maybe a year or so earlier or later. It's best not to be too accurate about some things.

In the first picture we see members of the first grade. They were taught by Miss McGlohon or Miss Davis. Perhaps some of those in the picture remember which. Standing on the ground, as close as the experts can see, we see, left to right Mildred Teachey, Sadie Hawes, Carter, Edith Fussell, Annie Mae Fussell, Eunice Mae Teachey, Margaret Blanchard, Betsy Herring, Beulah May Scott, Lorraine Newton, Kathleen Fussell and Olivia Turner.

In the second picture the same children have advanced to the 5th or 6th grade and are shown with Mrs. Lillian Walton Blanchard, their teacher.

Sitting on the bottom step we see Dallas Herring, who seems

Sons of Rose Hill Natives Win Honors

SCOUT RICHARD MARSHALL

Scouts Richard Marshall of Florence, Alabama and Marsh Williams of Atlanta, Georgia are sons of Rose Hill natives who are cousins of the same age and who lived all of their lives in Rose Hill until their college years. Richard is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Charles Marshall, Jr. of Florence and grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. Herbert C. Marshall of Rose Hill. Marsh is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Marsh Williams of Atlanta. His mother is the former Patricia Ann Wilson, and his grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Wilson of Rose Hill.

Both scouts are great grandsons of the late Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Fussell of Rose Hill.

LIFE SCOUT EARNS EAGLE AWARD

Life Scout Marsh Williams of Troop 195 has received his Eagle Award, the highest rank in scouting. Marsh is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray M. Williams of 6368 Vernon Woods Drive. He is in the 10th grade at Sandy Springs High School. Ken McIntosh is scoutmaster of Troop 195, sponsored by Mt. Vernon Presbyterian Church.

Richard lacks a couple of badges yet for his Eagle Award. He has been interested in scouting since he was old enough to be a cub scout. He has been senior patrol leader for a year and a half and last spring was tapped for the Order of the Arrow in the local lodge in his home town, and now takes an active part in that. He was chosen to appear on the program for the Recognition Banquet, an annual affair, and was photographed for the city paper with the most experienced Scout of the area captioned as "Scouting's Finest."

to be taking notes on weighty matters even at this early age. He is dressed in striped overalls, and is that a black right eye? Elmo Teachey, sitting by him wears knickerbockers (has any boy now of his age now ever even heard of them?) and is holding his cap on his left have been enterprising business men for several years. They ran a paper route for a large area for several years, the younger boys working for the older. Recently Richard and Herbert sold their interest to Charlie and Tom, the younger two, and have acquired more adult types of jobs. Richard and all three brothers take music, both piano and a band instrument and Richard's band is to compete in the state contest in April. Credit for their musical talent is given to their grandmother, Lucy Fussell Marshall, for years an outstanding musician and piano teacher in the community of Rose Hill. Richard is a member of the Florence Methodist Church.

Marsh Williams, of Atlanta, Ga. has also been interested in scouting since cub scout days. He is a member of troop 195, of Mount Vernon Presbyterian Church of the Polaris District in the Atlanta area Council. He had the double honor of receiving both his God and Country Award and his Eagle Scout Award on the same day, in February of 1968.

Marsh is in the 10th grade in Sandy Springs High School. He is on the High School Soccer Team and in other athletic activities, and is a member of the Mt. Vernon Presbyterian Church. He works at an after school and Saturday job in a grocery store. He has a younger brother, Clegg, who is also active in scouting and very interested in sports, excelling especially in base ball. Both of Marsh's parents have worked in scouting activities since he was old enough to be a cub scout. His father has acted as co-ordinator and leader in the church's scouting projects and his mother has served years as Den Mother, Camp Craft instructor during summer months, and also trainer for craft instructors in the Atlanta area.

A Guy and Dolls in the Good Old Days

Pictured above is the late Dr. Ivey L. Hawes, Dentist, of Rose Hill with two Junior Bells of the town around 1908 or 1908. The young lady on the left is Hartie May Bradshaw, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. D. Bradshaw. She has her hair drawn back, pony tail fashion, with a bow of ribbon tied on it. Her black ribbed stockings, high laced shoes and princess dress with bertha collar and long sleeves were in the style of the times for siren's of her age, but the half-smile and cut of the eyes were all her own and are well remembered by her contemporaries. The boy's hat she wears on the back of her hair accents her personality.

The young lady on the right is Mildred Scott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Scott who were also earlier dwellers here. Mildred wears her hair braided on each side, rolled under to make two loops which were tied with big taffeta bows, probably from Mr. Henderson's ribbon counter

In The Armed Forces

Donald Fussell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Boyce Fussell, has enlisted in the U. S. Army and is taking his basic training at Ft. Bragg, N. C.

For the past two years Don has been a student at Mt. Olive College, Mt. Olive, N. C. He has now finished his third week of basic training.

in the store across the railroad, Mildred wears a boys cap with the bill turned to the back, quite a jaunty thing to do.

She has on a plaid gingham dress, the skirt pleated all around, with suspenders on the bias for a trim. Long black stockings and high buttoned shoes complete her costume.

Both girls lived right down town, and all who didn't envy them. Hartie May's family ran the Hotel on the corner by the railroad track and Mildred lived across the track. Her home was near by and both knew what was going on in their neighborhood. Nothing of interest escaped them.

Dr. Hawes, at the time the picture was made, was not married and was a great favorite with the children in town. He enjoyed all young people. He was the father of Ed Hawes of Bostic-Hawes Motor Company in Wallace, and an uncle of our present Dr. Forest Hawes.

Hartie May grew up and married Mr. W. H. Smith of Wilmington, where they now live.

Mildred became Mrs. Henry Early of Thomasville, and she and her husband still live there. Both girls have many friends and relatives in Rose Hill and occasionally return for short visits.

Attend Birthday Dinner

Mrs. Woodrow Chestnut and J. W. Chestnut, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Merritt, with their children Lynn, Steve, Mark, Chris and Mitch and Andy Wood were visitors in the home of their mother, Mrs. George Merritt of the Waycross Community on Sunday. It was Mrs. Merritt's birthday and others present for the bountiful birthday dinner were children and grandchildren from Burgaw, Virginia Beach, Va., and Clinton. Messages, gifts and greetings were received by Mrs. Merritt from her children in San Francisco, California, Atlanta, Ga. and Reading, Pa. who could not be present. One son, George Albert Merritt, lives in the home community and was present with his family. About thirty people, all of the same family of the brothers and sisters were present to be with their mother for this happy occasion.

Other relatives and friends visited during the day to wish Mrs. Merritt's happy birthday.
