Training Opportunities Available

The Employment Service Mobile Office announces that there are still openings in two courses under the Manpower Development and Training Act which are scheduled to begin at James Sprunt Institute on Mar. 25, 1968.

The courses are designed to train unemployed persons in either welding or secretarial skills.

In order to qualify for the courses, a person must be totally unemployed; have at least one year's work experience and be at least 18 years of age.

In addition, applicants for the secretarial course should be high school graduates, and those applying for the welding course should have completed at least the 8th grade.

A training allowance is available to persons who qualify for training and are "heads of families or households."

There still are openings in these programs. Those interested should contact James Sprunt.
