They are as follows: President, Glenn Gulford; Vice-President, Danny Hill: Secretary, Billy Hunter; Treasure, Herman Sullivan; Reporter, Henry Clay Westbrook; Sentinel, Donnell Kornegay. By 1978 an additional 5,932 classrooms will be needed to replace those that become obsolete; 5,946 will be needed to provide for increased and shifting student populations. When this 11,878 is added to the current needs, the total becomes 22,233 classrooms needed within 10 years. Dr. Carroll also pointed out that a considerable number of additional classrooms will be needed when the State initiates a kindergarten program for five-year-old students. In projecting the facilities needed for this program, he said several factors and variables must be kept in mind, "The most important of these is the fact that the number of live births in North Carolina has declined steadily from a high of 116,-274 in 1956 to 107,364 in 1963 (five years ago) and to 92,900

"Assuming that (1) the number of live births will continue to be approximately 100,000 annually; (2) 75% of the five-year olds will attend kindergarten on an optional basis; (3) 50% of these will live in an urban area and will attend kindergarten one-half day, either morning or afternoon; and (4) each class will have approximately 20 students, around 2,813 classrooms will be needed to house some 75,000 five-yearold children in a statewide kindergarten program." tions are reasonable, the State Superintendent added that the projection of total classroom needs between now and 1978 should include approximately 2,813 for the kindergarten program. This additional number would bring the total projected classroom needs - both for now and the future - to a grand tota 1 of around 25,045 class-

He also observed that the public schools will need, in addition to classrooms, appropriate auxiliary facilities in order to provide an adequate program. These include lunchrooms, offices, toilets, clinic rooms, libraries, shops, laboratories, auditoriums, and facilities for art, music, and physical education. "Although many of the needed classrooms will be added to existing buildings where auxiliary facilities are currently available, the great currently available, the great majority will be constructed at newlocations where all auxi-liary facilities must also be provided," he said.

In summarizing the findings of the survey, Dr. Carroll said:
"Although North Carolinahas made a great effort since 1949 to provide better school facilities, the State has not been able to catch up with the backable to catch up with the backlog of needs accumulated during the period 1929 to 1946; that is, during the great depression and World War II. In addition to this backlog, the State has been faced with a growing enrollment or shifting of the population from PAGE 5 THE DUPLIN TIMES-PROGRESS SENTINEL, APRIL 11, 1968 rural to urban areas and with the desire and needfor improv-ed school standards which resuits in school reorganization and consolidation. And in the last few years, the problems of integration have been added to the situation.

"If we are to meet the present and future needs for adequate classrooms, we must do more than we have in the past - and this will require the maximum effort at both the local and State levels."
