Wilmington's Son - Parade Marshal At Festival

WILMINGTON, N. C. - One of Wilmington's most famous sons has been named to a top role in Wilmington's biggest springtime spectacle. He is Quarterback Sonny Jurgensen of the Washington Redskins in the National Football League, and he will serve as parade marshal in the 21st annual North Carolina Azalea

Festival at Wilmington on April 18-21. The selection of Jurgensen to head the mammoth Azalea Festival parade is described by Festival President B. E. (Bill) Huffine as "a fitting tribute to one of the stars of professional football." Huffine said, "This is one way the home town folks can show Sonny how proud we are of his accomplishments and the fine manner in which he reflects great credit upon his home town."

Jurgensen's prowess as a professional football player reached its peak in the 1967 season when he won the NFL's passing title with 288 completions in 508 attempts. His field generalship is illustrated by his ability as a quarterback, and his strong right arm has carried the Redskins to many dramatic victories. He threw 31 touchdown passes in the 1967 season, and his 56.7 percent completions totaled 3,747 yards.

The six-foot, 203-pound Wilmingtonian has been in the pro ranks for 11 years, and returns home for the 1968 Azalea Festival as one of its best-known celebrities and special guests. Jurgensen's football fame began early, as he won All-State honors while playing for New Hanover High School and Coach Leon Brogden. He played college football at Duke University.

His high school coach said Sonny was as good as a baseball and basketball player as he was in football. "He could play any position on a baseball team," Brogden said. Brogden calls Sonny "one of the very best three-sport boys ever to come out of North Carolina."

Jurgensen's honors as professional football player are lengthy and impressive. He was named to the All-Pro team four times, and was a player in the Pro Bowl game four times. As parade marshal and special guest at the Azalea Festival, he will take part in many activities, along with Queen Azalea XXI, Linda Cristal, and a host of prominent personalities, entertainers, and special guests.

"It's not always easy to be a hero in your own home town, but Sonny's made it all the way," Huffine declared.

An annual total of 300,000 brothers or about 15,000 laying hens is necessary to fully employ one man in a mechanized operation in North Carolina.

Prior to adjournment the retiring Worthy Matron, Mrs. Dora W. Evans was presented a past matrons jewel by Mrs. Sue Westbrook, and her husband Davis Evans received his past patron's pin from the hands of Colon Holland also a past patron of the local chapter.

A social hour followed the benediction during which time the 60 present enjoyed punch, party cake squares, nuts and mints which carried out a color scheme of red, white and blue as did the lovely floral decorations. The refreshments committee was composed of Mesdames Violet Rogers, Rose Wallington, Ruby Mae Smith, Hilda Grace Smith, Ruby Gray Smith, Mamie Sheppard and Robert Chestnut.

Outstanding Student

One of Edgewood's outstanding students has recently been honored. Miss C. Lynne Odom, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Odom of Abingdon, Md. is one of the six students within the state of Maryland to be selected to read a scientific paper at the 1968 Maryland Junior Sciences and Humanities Symposium on April 25-27 in Baltimore.

Lynne will also be one of the six students to represent Maryland at the National Symposium. This event will take place at the University of Iowa in Iowa City on May 15-18. Nigel O. C. Wolff, Director of the Maryland Academy, is the one that notified Lynne of the honor, while congratulating her and her school for the outstanding work.

Besides this honor, Lynne was recently inducted into Edgewood's National Honor Society on March 12. This honor is indeed a credit to Edgewood High School.

Lynne is a grand daughter of Mrs. Perry J. Dobson of Kenansville. Her mother is the former Doris Dobson.

F H A Memorial

The East Duplin Future Homemakers of America paid tribute to Mrs. Edna Ward on Thursday, through their F.H.A. Project Program, National F. H. A. Week.

Three camellias (Rose Hill Red, Kumsaka, and Elizabeth Lebey) were planted under the pines on the campus in her memory. The Harpers Nursery at Pink Hill paid its tribute to through the donation of a pink flowering crab apple tree (Elijah).

It is through a project of this type that the F.H.A.'ers hope to instill in the memory of the students what Mrs. Ward stood for - "She Knew Her Duty and Did It."
