

Remarks By Cong. Henderson

Delivered on the Floor of the House, May 29, 1968

Mr. Speaker: The news media last night reported that a large group of the so-called poor people visited the cafeteria in the Agriculture Department yesterday and as they went down the line, indicated that the charges for their food should all be put on one bill.

Then the man at the end of the line who ostensibly was to pay the bill refused to do so. It was reported that he stated that the Agriculture Department owed the poor people of America several million dollars worth of surplus food and that the bill amounting to more than two hundred dollars worth of food taken by his group should simply be charged against what the Department owed them.

It is an outrage when a group of people is permitted to do a thing like this with complete impunity. The news media did not report a single arrest. It did not report that effort was made to collect or even that these lawbreakers were ordered or required to leave the building.

Just how much are we supposed to take? I think it is clear to these people that every one of them will be arrested and tried for every violation of the law which he commits. It is time to get them off the grounds of West Potomac Park and to hold them to the same rules and regulations that are applicable to Boy Scout groups and anyone else desiring to camp on federal property in Washington.

As a member of the House Public Works Committee, I have heard several hours of testimony from officials here who attempted to justify permitting these people access to federal property here. I have yet to hear a single word which showed any basis whatever for extending to those in the Poor Peoples' March privileges not

Plans Being Made

statistics for a period of years disclosed that the cross belt movement of tobacco was one of the causes of congestion and confusion.

The study also showed that a disproportionate distribution of buyers to the various belts makes it almost compulsory for farmers to haul their tobacco long distances and across belt lines in order to try to locate a market for it.

The Coastal Plains Tobacco Auction Warehouse Association, as a result of research and study, proposes that selling time on the various belts be allocated according to the tobacco produced in that belt.

This, the warehousemen feel, is basic to orderly marketing. Further, recognizing that the volume of tobacco will probably have to be curtailed during the selling season. They propose that if a belt is substantially through selling its production that such belt bear the heaviest proportion of any curtailment in the allocation of hours.

The Association has pointed out to the committee that its proposals would give the tobacco farmers in each area their proportionate share of the redrying and processing facilities. Exhibits and figures showing the practicality of these proposals were submitted to the committee.

It was also proposed to the committee that the belts to the north of the border belt be opened with a limited number of sets of buyers some two weeks earlier than their traditional opening date. The need for this measure has been apparent for several years and its feasibility was described in a detailed plan submitted to the committee.

The purpose and objectives of Coastal Plains Auction Warehouse Association as set forth in the articles of incorporation are threefold:

(a) To promote more efficient handling and orderly marketing of tobacco for the tobacco farmers in the Coastal Plain area of North Carolina.

(b) Establishment of better relationships between the tobacco farmers, buyers, and warehousemen through active cooperation with other Warehouse Associations, Inc., Flue-Cured Stabilization Corp., Inc., all buying companies, farm organizations and state and national government agencies interested in flue-cured tobacco.

(c) The continuous development of better marketing facilities, practices and methods for the convenience and best interests of the tobacco farmers and purchasing companies.

Warsaw Will Hire Students

Employment of two college students for the summer under the FACE program was approved last night by the Warsaw Town Board.
