JSI Offers College Preparatory Classes

College bound high school graduates of Duplin County will have an opportunity to take college preparatory English and math at James Sprunt Institute this summer. Classes will begin June 10. Professor T. R. Lupton, of the Mathematics Department of Wilmington College, will be the math instructor. Professor Joan Bass, of the English Department of East Carolina University, will be the English instructor. These courses will definitely prove beneficial to the student entering college as a freshman this fall.

The following schedule is so organized that students may attend either day or night classes:

Mathematics - Monday and Wednesday day classes - 4 to 6 p.m. night classes - 7 to 9 p.m.
English - Tuesday and Thursday day classes - 4 to 6 p.m. night classes - 7 to 9 p.m.
The above schedule will allow students to take both math and English and attend either day or night classes. It is anticipated that they will take advantage of this opportunity in order that their freshman year at college will be more successful. These courses are tuition free.
