WE SALUTE

Mrs. Dorothy A. Smith BUSINESS AND PROFESSIONAL WOMEN

Mrs. Smith is a native of Beulaville, and after graduating from Beulaville High School she attended East Carolina College in Greenville. She is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Albertson of Beulaville and is married to Scott Smith who is employed by DuPont. They have two daughters; Mrs. Marie Maready of Beulaville, and Kay Smith a rising senior at East Carolina University. They also have one grandchild, Dorothy is employed by Bostic Drug in Beulaville. She is an active member of the Beulaville Presbyterian Church where she is currently vice president of the Women of the Church, and is active in the Circles. She loves to fish but time spent with her grandchild is of more importance.

Carolina Tel. Construction Cost

Tarboro--During the first half of 1968, Carolina Telephone spent more than $15,800,000 of its proposed $34,400,000 budget for expansion of local and long distance facilities. H. Dall Holderness, company president, said that through June of this year, the construction program has included $1 million for land and buildings, $7.0 million for exchange lines and dial equipment for the provision of local telephone service, $2.8 million for telephone station equipment, $4.3 million for long distance lines and equipment, $600,000 for poles and conduit, and about $140,000 for general equipment. At the end of June, the company's total plant investment amounted to more than $217,000,000. During the first six months of the year, Carolina Telephone gained over 16,500 telephones and handled more than 13,400,000 long distance calls

Croatan District Court Of Honor

Croatan District Court of Honor was held on July 31, 1968 at the National Guard Armory in Warsaw.

The welcome was given by district scout executive, Tom Deaton. The colors were presented by troop 20. This was a thrilling sight when everyone saluted and bugles blew to the colors. Approximately 112 scouts and members of their family attended. Opening ceremony was conducted by Lindsay Clark. It consisted of a candle ceremony representing the scout laws. The frame to hold the candles was a log tripod about eight feet high.

There were nine recently advanced Eagle scouts to attend: John Gaylor, Post 768 Mt. Olive, and William Edward Brown Troop 47 Beulaville were 2 new Eagles unable to attend. The nine who attended were Ronald Pate, Post 46 Albertson; Michael Harper troop 46 Albertson; Harry Rivenbark, post 245 Rose Hill; Jeff Carter, Post 245 Rose Hill; Gray Whaley, Troop 35, Wallace, Norman Lewis, Troop 41 Faison; Lindsay Clark, Troop 20, Warsaw; David Sheffield, Troop 20, Warsaw; Nathan Costin, Troop 20, Warsaw.

Senior Citizen

Mr. and Mrs. Tyson Y. Dobson, Sr. of Beulaville

After 43 years of rural mail carrying Mr. Dobson retired in November 30, 1968. According to these dates, the Dobson's are entitled to be regarded as Senior Citizens, but no body grows old by merely living a great number of years, and so it is with the Dobsons. How do they spend retirement years? Mrs. Dobson said "When we get around to visit all our children, it's time to start again." Mr. Dobson had three children: Mrs. Bruce Barbee, a school teacher of Richlands; T.Y. (Yates) Dobson, Jr. an attorney of Smithfield; and Ervin G. Dobson, a school teacher of Durham.

Mrs. Dobson's children are: Leslie H. Rouse, with McLean Trucking in Winston Salem; Doane Rouse, in business for himself in Belhaven; C. C. Rouse, with Branch Bank in Warsaw; Mrs. C. C. Ivey, Jr. (Elnora) of Rt. 2, Mt. Olive, secretary of Production Credit in Kenansville; Ward Rouse, Rt. 2, Rose Hill, who is with the Coast Guard stationed at Morehead City; Mrs. Polly Costin, Rt. 2, Rose Hill, an employee of Aycock Milling in Wallace; Mrs. Mary Lee Phillips a housewife of Durham and Vernon Rouse, also with McLean Trucking in Boston, Massachusetts. There are two Dobson grandchildren and 20 Rouse grandchildren.

The Dobsons are active members of the Baptist Church. He is active in Beulaville Church while Mrs. Dobson retains her membership at Dobson's Chapel and they attend both churches. Both have farming interests which ranges from "just piddling to operating a farm on a business like basis." They both enjoy good health, "Miss Mary is just the best cook in the world and Mr. Tyson eats too much." They are a grand couple and we wish for them many years of continued happiness.

Lt. Col. Roy Teems, Hospital Administrator, briefs Major Leland R. Sanderson, Rt. 1, Beulaville, on the organization of the Seymour Johnson A F B, Base Hospital, at Goldsboro, N.C. Major Sanderson, an Air Force reservist, serves as Commander of the 464th Medical Services Flight (Reserve) that completed two weeks of active duty at Seymour Johnson A F B, N.C. Tuesday August 13.

Our Reserve Forces

It's What's up Front That Counts? I guess that phrase helps market certain commercial products but if you are in the military establishment it has little or no meaning. Throughout the country it is understood that regular military forces are the country's first line of defense, but our military leaders are the first to shout the praises of that much important-seldom publicized second line of defense--our Reserve Forces. In the military, whether it be the USAF, Army, Navy or Marines, unlike on the athletic field, the second team must be every bit as capable as the team it replaces on the field of battle. Realizing this the Department of Defense has established definite criteria of training for its reserve units whether they be Army Infantry companies, Navy shore patrols units, Marine air arms, Or United States Air Force Reserve medical units. Here at Seymour Johnson base personnel and dependents had a n opportunity during the past two weeks to watch some of its "second teams", members of the USAF 464th Medical Services Reserve Flight of the Fourth Tactical Hospital, perform their many professional duties while serving on active duty at the hospital. The 19 members of the Reserve unit headed by Maj. Leland R. Sanderson, Beulaville, N.C., performed their daily duties in a wide variety of professional medical skills during their two week stint of duty. Nurse, laboratory technician, radiologist, dentist, medical supply specialist, pathologist, or veterinarians members of the flight, though serving their civilian communities on a daily basis in highly critical fields, took time out to don the USAF uniform and accomplish their duties in a highly professional and military manner. During the two weeks of active duty medical flight reservists not only were kept abreast of the latest medical progress in their respective fields of endeavor but had an opportunity to work side by side with their counterparts in the hospital. According to Lt. Col. Roy Teems, Hospital Administrator the high degree of professionalism and proficiency displayed by the Reservists reflected highly not only on the medical profession as a whole but on the community in general for supplying our military forces with the high calibre of medical people required to man the flight. Members of the unit meet one week-end each month and have an opportunity to work with regular USAF personnel and undergo training that keeps them aware of the latest developments in techniques, equipment and medical policies of the Department of Defense.

Teams Are Announced For Mt. Olive Softball Tournament

A meeting of team officials was held in Mt. Olive on Thursday evening August 16, to "kick-off" the first annual Mt. Olive Invitational Softball Tournament.
