Lighting

School time again. Time to re-evaluate home lighting to insure that young eyes get the proper illumination for reading and studying.

Matter of fact, a home lighting check is good eye protection for every member of the family. It pinpoints faulty and inadequate lighting, a major contributor to dangerous eye strain and fatigue.

In addition to improving visual comfort, well-planned lighting adds convenience, beauty and flexibility to family living. Rooms appear larger, furnishings more attractive and colors richer.

Now—before school begins—is the time to protect your family's sight, while enhancing the appearance of your home with planned lighting.
