

WE SALUTE

Miss Eleanor Boney

BUSINESS AND PROFESSIONAL WOMEN

For the past 16 years Eleanor has been employed in the accounting department of J. P. Stevens Inc. of Wallace. Not only does she fill this position but she is also interior decorator for the company. Many events featured by the company, both elegant and casual are made lovelier by her artistic touch.

Prior to becoming a vital part of the giant Stevens Industries, Miss Boney was employed by the Duplin County Agricultural Conservation Service in Kenansville. She was a clerk there for several years and the last eight years was spent as Manager of the ASC Office.

Eleanor is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Stokes Boney of Wallace. She is a graduate of Wallace High School, a member of Wallace Presbyterian Church and a charter member of the Wallace Junior Woman's Club.

She enjoys playing bridge and is especially fond of traveling. She has visited every state in the original 48 states in the USA and every province in Canada. It is safe to say that her real hobby is the creation of beauty, whether in line of duty or creating the perfect setting when a friend entertains.

Senior Citizen

Mr. and Mrs. Tyson Y. Dobson, Sr. of Beulaville

After 43 years of rural mail carrying Mr. Dobson retired in November 30, 1958. According to these dates, the Dobson's are entitled to be regarded as Senior Citizens, but no body grows old by merely living a great number of years, and so it is with the Dobsons. How do they spend retirement years? Mrs. Dobson said "When we get around to visit all our children, it's time to start again." Mr. Dobson had three children: Mrs. Bruce Barbee, a school teacher of Richlands; T.Y. (Yates) Dobson, Jr., an attorney of Smithfield; and Ervin G. Dobson, a school teacher of Durham.

Mrs. Dobson's children are: Leslie H. Rouse, with McLean Trucking in Winston Salem; Doane Rouse, in business for himself in Belhaven; C. G. Rouse, with Branch Bank in Warsaw; Mrs. C. G. Ivey, Jr. (Elnora) of Rt. 2, Mt. Olive, secretary of Production Credit in Kenansville; Ward Rouse, Rt. 2, Rose Hill, who is with the Coast Guard stationed at Morehead City; Mrs. Polly Costin, Rt. 2, Rose Hill, an employee of Aycock Milling in Wallace; Mrs. Mary Lee Phillips a housewife of Durham and Vernon Rouse, also with McLean Trucking in Boston, Massachusetts. There are two Dobson grandchildren and 20 Rouse grandchildren.

The Dobsons are active members of the Baptist Church. He is active in Beulaville Church while Mrs. Dobson retains her membership at Dobson's Chapel and they attend both churches. Both have farming interests which ranges from "just piddling to operating a farm on a business like basis." They both enjoy good health. "Miss Mary is just the best cook in the world and Mr. Tyson eats too much." They are a grand couple and we wish for them many years of continued happiness.

Union Lounge. Tuesday was another busy day. The morning was filled with group discussion and in the afternoon a professional panel discussed matters with which we are concerned, they were: Legislation, Claude H. Farrell, Coordinator of Lay Relations, NCEA; Insurance, John C. Fields, State Manager, Horace Mann Insurance Company; retirement, Lloyd S. Isaacs, Director of Public Health Relations, NCEA; Resolutions, Mrs. Elizabeth Kelly, Chm., CTAREsolutions Committee; and Professional Practices Act, Mrs. Phoebe Emmons, Director
