"Hogging - Off" Corn

By: Robert W. Swain
Agricultural Extension Agent (Livestock Work)

One of the cheapest ways to harvest corn is to let hogs do the job. This is especially true where fields are already fenced or use can be made of electric fencing. Some management factors which should be followed for best results are as follows:
1. Use good quality, healthy pigs weighing 75-100 pounds.
2. Be sure pigs are immunized against hog cholera.
3. Put a feeder filled with the same feed which the pigs have been eating in the field. Keep feed in this feeder until the pigs start eating the corn.
4. It is best to breakdown several rows of corn with a tractor so the pigs can reach it and learn to eat it.
5. Divide the field into small lots with electric fencing so the pigs will clean a lot with a minimum of waste. All the corn in a given section should be consumed in three weeks. If it is not, either reduce the size of the next plot or add more pigs.

6. Hand-feed .6 to .7 pounds of 40% protein supplement per pig per day. Have enough trough space so all pigs can get their share of supplement.
7. Provide a mineral mixture free-choice.
8. Control internal and external parasites.
9. Provide shelter and shade.
10. Provide at least one water cup per 25 pigs.
The County Agricultural Extension office in Kenansville has information on all phases of hog production. This information is for anyone trying to make money with hogs. We have farrowing house and feeding floor plans along with plans for other facilities. Let us help you do a better job with hogs.

Miss Carter Is Bride of Mr. Bohn

Miss Margaret Ann Carter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Henry Carter of Bowden, became the bride of Kevin Joseph Bohn, son of Mr. and Mrs. E.J. Bohn of Akron, N.Y. in a double ring ceremony solemnized Saturday, September 7, 1968 at 2:00 in the afternoon in the Seymour Johnson Base Chapel. Father Shea officiated.

The church decorations included arrangements of white gladioli, mums and snapdragons against a background of candleabra.

Given in marriage by her brother, Henry Ellis Carter, the bride wore a formal gown of crepe and alencon lace. The bodice featured an Empire waist, sabrina neckline and callapointed sleeves of alencon lace. The A-line skirt of crepe was complimented by a chapel length train which fell from the shoulders. Her veil of silk illusion fell from petals of illusion and seed pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of white roses centered with a white orchid.

Miss Faye Ezzell of Burgaw was maid of honor. She wore a formal gown of pink crepe with an empire waist, wedding ring neckline interspersed with pearls, and elbow length sleeves. A panel of self-fabric flowed softly down the back. Matching headpieces were worn. She carried a cluster of pink carnations.

Bridesmaid was Miss Diane Carter of Bowden, sister of the bride. Her dress and headpiece was identical to that of the honor attendant and carried pink carnations.
Roger Bohn of Akron, N.Y., brother of the groom was best man.
Ushers were Richard Eaton and Jeff Kirby, both of Seymour Johnson.
Mrs. Carter wore for her daughter's wedding a pale yellow, brocade dress and a yellow orchid corsage.

Mrs. Dora Register of Warsaw, Maternal grandmother of the bride wore a green three piece suit and corsage of white carnations.

Following the ceremony the bridal party received guests in the entrance of the Chapel. The bridal couple left for a
