Girl Scout Team "Camped Out"

The Warsaw Girl Scout Neighborhood Association met Thursday morning at the home of Mrs. E.B. Ralford. Mrs. Al Smith, neighborhood chairman, presided. She led the group in some of old Girl Scout songs and in some new ones which she and some of the other leaders learned at a camp-out the week before. Mrs. Charles Owens accompanied her with her guitar. Mrs. Smith gave instructions on firebuilding and safety rules on firebuilding. Mrs. Warren Creasey divided the leaders into two patrols. She gave each patrol a paper chart which is a list of each person's duties. Duties were assigned, and the two patrols began "camping-out".

The hostesses prepared the tables and made centerpieces for them. The tables were the ground which they swept clean, and they made their centerpieces from any available material, such as pine cones, leaves, and berries. The wood gatherers and fire builders gathered their wood and started their fires. This was done in a clear spot in which the sky could be seen. Water and sand were brought to the area so that if a fire got out of hand it could quickly be extinguished. In the meantime the cooks prepared the food and put it on the cook.

While the food was cooking, Mrs. Mary Harvey of Wilson who is the supervisor of Girl Scouting in the Coastal Carolina Council instructed and led the group in the flag ceremony. Mrs. Ralford then served sliced apples with peanut butter as a suggestion of a light refreshment which the girls could prepare themselves at a Girl Scout meeting.

When lunch was ready Mrs. Smith led in the Girl Scout grace. The hostesses served a delicious luncheon which consisted of stewed chicken with noodles, tossed salad, iced tea, brownies, and gingerbread. This was all cooked outside over the fires we had prepared except for the tea which was made ahead of time. The brownies and gingerbread were baked in reflector ovens which were constructed by the leaders. All amazed at how good the food was.

The plates and utensils were washed in sinks which had been made in the ground with plastic for this purpose. The plates and utensils were put in dirty bags, dipped in boiling water to sterilize, and hung on clothes lines to dry. Everyone joined in to finish cleaning up and to put out the fires.

The group joined together in a friendship circle. They departed for home, thinking 175 Girl Scouts in the Warsaw neighborhood would thoroughly enjoy such a day. (The Warsaw neighborhood includes all of Duplin except Wallace. Troops have been formed in Rose Hill and Cedar Fork, and they were represented.) There were 19 who attended the camp out.

L. P. N's Meet

Area 29 of License Practical Nurses met October 9 in the Dining Room of Duplin General Hospital. Twelve members and five guests attended. Mrs. Marsha Powell, Clinical Instructor of James Sprunt Institute was guest speaker. Her very timely message was on the legal aspects of nursing. Mrs. Helen Merritt and Mrs. Gussie Carter served refreshments of punch, cookies, nuts, and mints.

The U. S. and Puerto Rico tobacco harvest in 1967 totaled 2,019 million pounds compared with 1,900 million in 1966. A larger crop of flue-cured was responsible for the increase.

Per capita consumption of cigarettes in 1967 was 4,280 per person 18 years old and older, which was slightly below the 1966 level.

Sales of snuff in 1967 amounted to 29 million pounds.

Troop 80 Joins Camping

After days of instructions, planning, and assembling items needed, the Warsaw Junior Girl Scout Troop 80 went camping Friday night at Camp Traltee near Goldsboro. The girls, their leaders, and the parents who were accompanying them, met at the Fire Hut at three-thirty Friday afternoon. After packing supplies into the various cars, the Girl Scouters departed.

A paper chart, which is a list of duties had been worked up last week, so the girls knew what their duties would be when they arrived at camp. Upon arrival at Camp Traltee the girls went to the cabins which had been assigned to them and unpacked. The hostesses for each of the four patrols made a table on the ground and made some beautiful centerpieces for them. The centerpieces were made from anything available, such as pine cones, leaves, berries, etc. The wood gatherers assembled wood for the bonfire. After saying the Girl Scout grace, they gathered around their tables and enjoyed the sack lunch and which they had brought. After eating they enjoyed singing some of their old Girl Scout songs and in learning some new ones.

Patrols 1 and 2 then planned the ceremony for lighting the bonfire while patrols 3 and 4 planned the activities and games to be used around the bonfire. After roasting marshmallows over the bonfire, they joined in the friendship circle. They then went to their cabins where they slept in bed rolls which they had made themselves.

Saturday morning the girls cooked their breakfasts of bacon, eggs, and toast on the vagon stoves which they had made and brought with them. They also had fruit juice and milk with their breakfasts. A training session on building fires, safety rules, and making sinks for dishwashing followed.

The girls then divided into two patrols again. The hostesses redid the tables and centerpieces while the wood gatherers gathered wood and started the fires and the cooks prepared the food for cooking. The cooks prepared chicken for cooking and later added noodles to the pot. They sliced apples and coated them with peanut butter and sprinkled them with raisins. They also fixed gingerbread which was cooked on reflector ovens. When the food was ready the hostesses served the plates, and the girls had a delicious lunch.

After eating the girls cleaned up their utensils, put out the fires, cleaned up the cabins, and packed the cars. They then went on a short hike. Upon returning they joined in the friendship circle and then left for home where they practiced marching for the Veterans' Day parade. From all reports all of the girls had a very good time and are looking forward to another trip in the spring.

Adults accompanying the girls were Mrs. Ellis Register who is their leader, Mrs. Al Smith, Mrs. Warren Creasey, Mrs. Allen Brown, Mrs. Max Grice, and Ronnie Torrans. The Girl Scouts are Linda Blackburn, Lynn Blackburn, Taria West, Cindy Bostic, Barbara Jean Underwood, Teresa Carlton, Karen Martin, Lynn Sheffield, Jane Rouse, Sheila Brock, Josef Ann Smith, Cindy Nelson, Faye Grice, Debbie Wray, Shari Jones, Darlene Harris, Debbie Torrans, Kalen Holmes, Pamela Brown, Beth Dixon, Jane Veach, Linda Duff, Beth Cavanaugh, Mary Lynn Lewis, and Teresa Williams.
