

Mrs. J. C. Potter finds collecting eggs a pleasant chore on their layer farm, Route 1, Albertson. She and Mr. Potter take care of the two layer houses and are planning construction of a third house sometime in the future.

Editors Note
Mrs. Frances Weber, who represents the firm that furnishes the started birds, feed, medication, and in fact all the elements necessary to be good Poultry growers, says all the growers in Duplin are very cooperative in every way to help themselves and her company to produce the quality product the Poultry industry desires.
Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Potter of Route 1, Albertson have recently entered the poultry industry and are well pleased with the results.
They have two houses that provides accommodations for approximately 10,000 layers.
The houses were constructed last fall and although they had contracted for layers they accepted day old chicks and raised their first layers. Replacement for these layers will be provided by Walnut Creek-Newhope Milling Co. of Goldsboro after they have passed the peak of production. Replacements will be sixteen weeks old when they arrive at the farm.
"We took the day old chicks when we were waiting for layers," said Mr. Potter. "It gave us an opportunity to learn more about the layers, and at the same time an opportunity to make some easy money."

Big Dutchman equipment was chosen by the Potters for their houses which are automatically equipped. They make periodic checks of the birds and pick-up the eggs, but the feeding and watering which is really the hard part is done by hand.
The Potters have three daughters who are in school. Rebecca is a senior at East Duplin and Gail is in the 9th grade. Deborah is in the 6th grade at EF Grady. But during summer months when Mr. Potter is busy with other farming, the girls assist with the layers.
The family farm also includes six acres of tobacco and several acres of corn.
"I think we are very fortunate to have Bobby Morgan for a supervisor," said Mrs. Potter. "We didn't know anything about layers, so we feel that we have done real well."
And it appears that they have done real well for already they are making plans for a third house bringing their layer capacity to 15,000 which they think will be about all they can care for.

The Potters live in a very attractive new brick home. They have little time for community affairs but he is a member of the Farm Bureau and a staunch supporter of the NFO--(National Farmers' Organization).
Military Band Concert
The Camp Lejeune Marine Band which is made up of talented musicians from all over the United States will be on hand for the North Carolina Poultry Jubilee. An hour-long concert will be presented at the Jubilee Lot beginning at 2:30 P.M., Saturday, October 4th.
Outstanding Young Farmer Of The Year
A deserving young man will be chosen from the many eligible farmers throughout Duplin County. In addition to the award, many valuable gifts and prizes await the farmer so honored. The selection will be made at 4:15 P.M., Saturday, October 4th, at the Jubilee Lot.

Broasted chicken is a favorite food in the poultry area of Duplin County. Ghaynelle's of Warsaw specializes in this rare delicacy which is served from her dining room, from the short order window, or prepared for take-out lunches.

The J. C. Potters have automatic equipment in both of their layer houses. This relieves them of much of the heavy work and allows them to care for the layers in addition to their corn, beans and tobacco farming.

Poultry Queen Pageant
The pageant was begun in 1934 with the idea of selecting a beautiful, talented and personable young lady to represent the Poultry Industry. The program this year will be held on Thursday evening, October 3rd, at Kinn Memorial Auditorium, Kinstonville, North Carolina. Members of the Poultry Industry have selected contestants to represent them from the many lovely young ladies of North Carolina. They will be presented on the Speakers Program Saturday afternoon on the Jubilee Lot. At the pageant the Queen will be selected by competition in swimwear, evening dress, talent and answers to questions. Barring illness will be held 7:30 P.M., Thursday, October 3rd.

Introduction Of Delegates
The Honorable Ben L. Harrell, a U.S. District Court Judge, will preside over the introduction which will include the Poultry Contestants and other visiting Queens. Also on the speakers program will be Representative Hugh S. Johnson, Congressman David Henderson, Commissioner James Graham and Legislator John Barney. This event is scheduled to be located on the Jubilee Lot; time of the program will be approximately 6:30 P.M. on Saturday, October 4th.
