

Vets Urged To Use G.I. Bill Benefits

Mrs. Elizabeth H. Gram, Manager of the Kenansville Office of the North Carolina Employment Security Commission, announced this week that college graduates have an average lifetime income that is $200,000 more than persons with only a high school diploma. H.S. Johnson, Director of the Veterans Administration Regional Office in Winston-Salem, pointed out that studies made by the U. S. Department of Labor show an average lifetime income of $200,000 for college graduates to $71,000 for non-college graduates.

training by Vietnam veterans is urged. Under the benefits, single students receive $200 per month for full-time training, with up to a maximum of 36 months eligibility, for a total of up to $7200. The allowance is increased for veterans with dependents. Veterans without a high school diploma can also receive monthly allowances while enrolled in high school studies without any charge against their basic eligibility, so that full GI Bill entitlement is retained for college attendance. Veterans in college on a half-time or more basis can be insured. VA will pay veterans up to $60 per month, for a maximum of $660, for tutorial assistance, without any charge against the basic entitlement. In addition to the services available through the County Veterans Service Officer and other organizations, Veterans are entitled to employment services on a preferential basis. These are available throughout the state and nation at local Employment Security Commission Offices. The office which covers Duplin and Sampson Counties is located in the Old Welfare Building, on Seminary Street, in Kenansville. The telephone number is 296-4791.

Tobacco Growers Getting Raw Deal

"Five-cent tobacco growers are getting a raw deal at the marketplace," B. C. Mangum, president of the N. C. Farm Bureau Federation, charged today. Average prices by grade on Eastern Belt markets which opened on Tuesday are less than last year, he pointed out, and on the Border Belt are about on a par with last year. "There is simply no justification for such a ridiculous situation," the state farm leader declared. "In the first place, growers' costs of production have gone up about 15% this year over last year. In the second place, there was a hue and cry last year about a shortage of tobacco, with result being that quotas were increased by 10%. It was put forth that unless production was increased, then there would be grave shortages, resulting in stepped up imports.

that a world-wide shortage of tobacco exists, but "we can't understand why the industry continues to import tobacco and at much higher prices, when the tobacco is now available here." "With production costs up to such an extent this year, and the low prices being offered, how many growers are going to be willing to plant their full quota next year? This could do nothing but aggravate the situation, leading to even greater shortages." The Farm Bureau president said that if growers are to continue meeting their responsibilities by producing the tobacco, then they must be paid accordingly at the marketplace. "Anything less is pure folly and completely out of tune with reality," he declared.

"Well, we have the tobacco now, but our farmers are being short-changed at the markets. Farmers increased their production in response to desperate cries of looming shortages. But where are the reasonable prices?" Mangum said there is no doubt

TERMITE DAMAGE

It is estimated that the cost of termite damage in the U. S. is 500 million dollars a year. Half of that amount, 250 million dollars, is paid to pest control operators and the remainder is paid for replacing wood in houses, says W. C. Warrick, extension housing specialist, North Carolina State University.

FRESH PRODUCE

When buying vegetables, select those that are fresh and crisp. "Quick sale" items are poor buys as a rule, says Mrs. Ruby Uzzle, extension consumer marketing economist, North Carolina State University. Also, check for signs of moisture in prepackaged items since moisture hastens decay.

U.S. Savings Bonds Sales Record

This represents 66.7 percent of the County's goal of $284,000, according to E. Craven Brewer, County Volunteer Chairman. June sales of E and H Bonds in North Carolina totaled $6,074,679, highest for June since 1945, and 26.5 percent above June 1972. Sales of Series E Bonds were $7,970,679 -- 25.0 percent over last June. H-Bond sales totaled $104,000. Sales for the first six months of 1973 came to $47,235,806 -- the best in 28 years.
