

Letter To The Editor

To the Editor:
The public school system of N.C. is based on a partnership between state and local governments. The state pays the major part of the cost of operating the schools while school facilities are built and owned by the respective school districts.

Unfortunately, from time to time, county governments have found themselves unable to provide learning facilities sufficient to meet the educational needs of our children.

In 1940, 1959 and 1963 the General Assembly asked the voters of N.C. to approve statewide bond issues to assist local communities in meeting their responsibilities. In each instance, the people responded with their overwhelming approval.

Last year State School Superintendent Craig Phillips conducted a survey of the need for educational facilities which exists today. The carefully detailed results of that survey show an urgent need for facilities now.

The survey also reveals what will be, without an immediate response, an overwhelming need by 1978. Clearly, the time has again come for the state to reassert its role in the partnership.

In February the State Board of Education requested the General Assembly to approve a referendum on $300 million in school construction bonds. After careful study and deliberation, both legislative houses almost unanimously approved the proposal.

Gov. Holshouser proclaimed the election for Nov. 6 and urged all citizens to support the bond issue.

State Treasurer Edwin Gill enthusiastically supported the bond issue on both economic and educational grounds, "not only as your State Treasurer, but as a member of the Board of Education. I know the needs to be met, and I recommend a high priority to be given to our public school needs."

Last week, Mr. Gill, a member of the committee working to inform the people of the necessity and importance of the bond issue, reaffirmed his support.

"Because of the healthy economy of N.C., which continues to grow on a sound basis, our present tax structure will be ample to meet the annual cost of debt service (on the bonds)" according to Mr. Gill.

The alternative is clear. Without state assistance, possible aid in keeping with N.C.'s historic partnership, the urgent need for learning facilities in many local school districts will put additional pressure on an already overburdened local (property) tax base.

We who are working for passage of the bond referendum on Nov. 6 urge all citizens to inform themselves as to the urgent need to provide learning facilities which will enable our children to face the future with confidence and with an adequate education.

We urge all to help us communicate the urgency of the need and the soundness of the proposal.

Sincerely,
Representative R. Lane Brown, III

Eastern Baptist Association Resolution

"In keeping with the spirit of our Association, we urge that the Eastern Baptist Association go on official record and notice as opposing in any shape, size or form alcoholic beverages and that we exert every possible energy toward defeating the liquor-by-the-drink referendum confronting our State and Counties. Further, we urge that we pledge individually and collectively our God-given energies and influence to support every legitimate way and means to defeat this issue in the Nov. 6, 1973 vote."

The Eastern Baptist Association comprising forty Southern Baptist Churches in Sampson, Duplin and Wayne Counties and representing over 11,000 members met last week for its annual Associational meeting. At its meeting of Wed., Oct. 10, 1973, held with the Turkey Baptist Church, the Association passed unanimously the above resolution.

Mrs. Hall Appointed
Dr. Willie F. Jones, Dean of Students at Mt. Olive College, has announced the appointment of Mrs. Carolyn C. Hall of Kenansville as Executive Director of the Women's Dormitory Complex, which is composed of Griffin, Hart and East Halls.

Mrs. Hall, who has had post-secondary training at both SCS and King's Business College, comes to Mt. Olive College from a position with the N.C. Agricultural Extension Service. From 1971-1972, she served in a resident position as Assistant Dean of Residence Life at St. Margaret's School in Tappahannock, Va. She has also held office positions.

Mrs. Hall is the mother of two children: Irene, a student at Roseboro College, and Dixon, President of ISI, she is an active member of the Kenansville Methodist Church.

In announcing Mrs. Hall's appointment, Dr. Jones commented: "We are extremely pleased to have Mrs. Hall join our staff. We believe that she has the commitment, experience and personality to make a considerable contribution to the total development of our students and to the facilitation of a positive living-learning environment on the campus. We welcome her to Mt. Olive."
