Tiger Growls

NEWS OF JAMES KENAN HIGH

Hello Local Worker, where I've been lately since I haven't been writing "Tiger Growls"? . . . It's a long story so we'll just skip it this week.

Football season is over for James Kenan this year and we have a record of 5-4. We've had a great season and we think they're really learning. Watch them next year! Friday we said goodbye to the following seniors: Ray Akers, Tony Bowden, Cecil McDuffie, Buster Johnson, Thurman Lenden, Bobby Rusty, Howard Dail, Millard Baker, Gary Hardy, Larry Williams, and Mark Pridgen. J. K. just won't be the same without these special Tigers. Oh well... We're sure our team will still growl and fight back.

Miss current miss Mrs. Jones' calling (see? That smile is for her, miss miss) which has broken its national record of 31 straight losses! Gaither finally won a football game. Keep smiling Mrs. Jones. It always helps.

James Kenan sings this week to its mighty Tigers.

Lynn Blackburn-Me and (Bobby) McGee; J. S. student body-Circle of Hands; Duplin County brass-Soul Train; Patricia Drew, Suzy Jo Hill, Mickie Simpson-Get Back; Ricky Honeycutt-Return To Sender and You Ain't Nothin But A Hound Dog; Judy Revelle-The Night the Ladies went Out in Georgia; Wylene Booth-Love Potion No. 9; Mitch Simpson and Nathan Castle-Just You and Me; Angela Henry-Baby I've Been Missing You; Eunice Dixon-It Hurts so Good; William Lollis-Midnight Train to Georgia; Frankie Byrd-Jesus Is Just Alright With Me; Oliver Joyner-I'm Through Trying to Prove My Love To You; McDaniel Smith-There's No Me Without You; Winston Hooks-Ecology.

Those students have got the James Kenan spirit this week. Hey, go, Tigers.

Hey girls, anybody for basketball? Mr. Bill Nelson is holding tryouts each afternoon. You'd better get out there and run a little. Gotta get right for our first game. And, of course, the men are meeting with Coach Allen Johnson. Hit your goals high, Tigers.

See ya'll next week!

Looking Ahead

What regular income can you count on in later years? What are some retirement investments? What are tax benefits for older persons? Have you planned for incapacity? These and many more questions will be answered at a special program planned for persons making plans for retirement and persons already retired.

Plan now to attend one of the special sessions being conducted by Thelma Hinson, specialist in family economics and D. G. Harwood, economist in farm management.

Living on a Retirement Income, Thursday, November 15, at 8:00 p. m. - Agricultural Building in Kenansville (for persons not retired)

Look for Ways to Cut Energy Needs in Home

If you are like most Americans and have been following conservation trends, it may be possible to cut the amount of energy used in your home by 5 to 10 percent.

With a shortage of home heating fuel a stark reality going into the winter months, it's a good time to begin using some of the energy-conserving practices.

North Carolina State University extension housing engineers have these suggestions:

Savings can begin with the simple steps of turning out lights when the room isn't being used and using smaller bulbs in locations where there is not a critical "seeing" task to be performed. Some of these places are hallways and in overhead lights used for general lighting.

Another place energy use can be reduced is in heating and cooling the home. The NCSU engineers point out that substantial savings can be realized by simply keeping the house slightly cooler in winter than usual. Or, next summer, keep it just slightly warmer than usual. Turning the thermostat only a degree or two back in winter and up in summer can make a big difference in the amount of energy used.

Along with this, good heating and cooling system maintenance is recommended. Keep filters cleaned and keep oil and gas burners adjusted for most efficient fuel use.

Some of the biggest energy-saving items around the home are weatherstripping, insulation and storm windows and doors.

Engineers point out that in homes without good weatherstripping
