Mime Trio To Perform In Area Duplin Schools

TOUCH, the mime trio of the Art School, will perform and demonstrate in ten schools in Duplin County during October 30 through November 8th. The programs are being sponsored by the Duplin County Arts Council in cooperation with the schools in the fourth annual "Arts in the Schools Project."

Touch has developed a contemporary style of mime -- as dissimilar to classical mime as modern dance is to ballet. They have exchanged the stylization of traditional French mime for the everyday gestures of body language and naturalistic characterization.

By improvisation with their audience, they manage to break through the "fourth wall" which usually separates players from viewers. TOUCH believes that theater can provide a human experience, where an audience can identify directly, from heart to heart, with the characters on stage.

Their program of original mime pieces varies according to the composition of the audience. However, it inevitably ranges in mood from silly to serious, and includes improvisation and audience participation of some sort.

The members of the trio met in a mime school in Florida in 1975. By 1976 they had moved to the Research Triangle Area of North Carolina and begun working together.

Laurie Wolf received a BS degree in Communications from Temple University, and has studied mime with the Philadelphia Mime Company, the Zero Moving Company, and Magic Mountain Mime. As a performer, she has appeared in film, radio, children's theatre, and mime shows in Pennsylvania, Florida, Virginia, and North Carolina. She taught mime through the Durham Recreation Department and the Durham Arts Council.

Sheila Kerrigan studied mime for six years with several teachers, including C.W. Metcalf and Tony Montanaro. She has performed in New York, Massachusetts, Vermont, Florida, Virginia, and North Carolina. Her teaching experiences include Bennington College, Magic Mountain Mime School and the Art School.

Jef Lambdin studied mime with C. W. Metcalf and Tom Pierce. Other areas of study include yoga, modern dance, gymnastics, juggling and foyletry. Previously, he worked with the Outreach Mime Troupe, performing in Florida, Michigan, Virginia, and North Carolina. He was a teacher at Magic Mountain Mime School, and the Community Youth Theatre in Chapel Hill.

In an effort to bring mime to people, TOUCH has performed in hospitals, libraries, prisons, cafes, churches, theatres, street fairs, on television, and for students from pre-school to the university level. The trio has participated in the Fine Arts Festival at UNC-CH, and has conducted mime workshops at NCCU, the N.C. Theatre Conference, and in many public and private schools. Recently, they were chosen to perform at the Southeastern Regional Convention of International Mimes and Pantomimists. TOUCH is a member of International Mimes and Pantomimists.

A schedule of local performances will appear next week.

Sorority Club News

The Sorority Club met October 6th at the home of Sandra Middleton. The meeting was called to order by President Sara Dobson, after which scripture was read by Sandra Middleton.

The club decided to have a ham raffle. Tickets should be available this week. Plans for the upcoming holidays have been made, and will include a private party for members and guests.

After collection of dues, the meeting adjourned, and the hostess served bologna sandwiches, potato chips, cookies and wafers, and iced drinks.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Lynda Outlaw.

Faison News Items

By Mrs. John B. Crow

Receives Cornea Transplant Friday night, October 13, in Pitt Memorial Hospital in Greenville, Mrs. Lila Mae Smith of Faison had a cornea transplantation to her left eye which was scarred by a cataract operation several years ago. Mrs. Smith was on a waiting list for this surgery, and was called home Friday afternoon for immediate surgery from her visit in Virginia. The transplant was received from a 43-year old woman who passed away in Pitt Memorial Friday morning, and who had donated her eyes to the Greenville Eye Clinic. Mrs. J.S. Houston of Aboskie was the receiver of the other cornea. Mrs. Houston said she had been waiting since last February for this transplant. Both patients are recuperating nicely, and if the body accepts the surgery, they will be able to see once again out of that eye. Dr. Steven White performed the surgery. Dr. White stated that he didn't like to get his cornea from the Eye Bank -- that if he removed the cornea himself, he knew that the patient was receiving a perfect cornea.

The speed of the earth's spin slows about a second a century.

This has been a busy week at Guardian Care. In addition to our regular volunteers, we were happy to have the Disabled American Veterans Auxiliary from Jacksonville. Our volunteer list is growing, and with it grows the happiness of our residents. This week, we would like to salute one of our faithful volunteers, Mrs. Lydia Reese of Chinquapin. Mrs. Reese, originally from Plymouth, retired in 1969 after thirty-three years as a school teacher. She taught second grade. Mrs. Reese is a member of Bethel Presbyterian Church, and each Monday afternoon comes to Guardian Care with a bag of treats for the residents who win at Bingo. However, everyone goes away with something, which makes everyone happy. Mrs. Reese is well-known and respected in this facility by both staff and residents. This week, Lydia Reese, our hats are off to you!

Residents are busy making items for our Fall Bazaar to be held in November. Any persons who have items they think might be recyclable may contact Phyllis Hardy or Judy Barber at Guardian Care. Such items as scrap lumber, old greeting cards, pine cones, plastic soft drink bottles, and old scrap materials are good examples of materials which could be used. Please call 296-1561 between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m. before bringing any such items as arrangements to store them must be made. We appreciate your interest and help in this matter.

Your lifestyle may be wasting 28% of the energy you use.

What you do in your home can make a big difference in how much energy you use -- and how much energy you waste.

Consider two houses; both 1500 square feet, family of four, fully equipped with appliances and central air conditioning.

Home #1 has storm windows and doors, proper insulation; home #2 doesn't. #1 keeps the thermostat at 78° in the summer; #2 at 72-75°.

In the winter, #1 keeps a 62° nighttime setting, 65-68° daytime; #2 keeps a 72° setting. The family in #1 watches the way it uses hot water and appliances; the family in #2 doesn't.

In a year, home #1 uses 87 million units of energy; #2 uses 122 million. So do what you can to cut down on wasted energy.

Because the more you get out of your energy dollar, the more we can get out of ours. And the less our bills will have to go up later on.

C'mon, kid, Live!

When the eyes flutter open at last, when the breath finally comes easy and regular -- only then can the fireman relax. And maybe take a little pride and pleasure from the special gift he's been given.

It's a leeward girl, with a big name: mouth-to-mouth resuscitation. And the gift itself is big, too. Because in many cases it brings people literally back from death.

Whenever you wonder "where Red Cross money goes," think of it. Part of your money goes to train people in all walks of life to do what needs to be done when the chips are really down.

Maybe you'll never need to be brought back to life this way. Then again, maybe you will. Isn't Red Cross a good idea? Belong.

Red Cross is counting on you.
