Annual Red Cross Meeting

The annual meeting of the Duplin County Chapter of the American Red Cross was held in Kenansville in the fellowship hall of the United Methodist Church Wednesday, June 27th. The meeting was presided over by outgoing chairman Mrs. W.M. Ingram, who welcomed those present, and called on the Rev. Troy D. Mullis, pastor of Grove Presbyterian Church for the opening prayer.

After the secretary, Mrs. N.B. Boney, read the minutes of the semi-annual meeting held in January, the treasurer, G. Harold Rose, made his financial report.

Mrs. Boney also told of the 96 military families who were rendered assistance during the past years, and reported on the 13 visits made to Duplin by the Tidewater Bloodmobile during the past 12 months. During that period, over a thousand pints of blood were donated by the local citizens.

Other reports were heard on safety services, home nursing, youth activities, and community services to camps and hospitals.

A highlight of the meeting was a filmstrip shown and explained by Jon Martindale, representative from the Carolinas Division Red Cross office in Charlotte depicting the work of the American Red Cross since its beginning on May 21, 1881, and suggesting plans for the Centennial Roll Call in the near future.

Prior to adjournment, Charles Ingram was introduced as Duplin County's new fund campaign manager. We will hear more about him later as he lines up his co-workers in the different communities for the fall campaign.
