

Warsaw Board Rezones Property

Property located behind John Melver and Son Grocery which connects to the store property was rezoned from residential to restricted business by the Warsaw town board Jan. 7 during the regular meeting.

A public hearing was scheduled to discuss the rezoning of the property but there was no one present. Mayor Sam Godwin called the public hearing into session at the beginning of the regular town board meeting, but after no public person appeared, the hearing was closed. Town commissioners discussed the rezoning of the property and voted to change the zone to a restricted business area.

The town board of commissioners also approved the second extension of funds to pay the salary of George Lloyd of the Warsaw Recreation Department, Lloyd, formerly on the CETA program, will be funded by the town for the next six months through monies from Revenue Sharing funds. Lloyd had been paid through the CETA program until September of 1979 when his eligibility on the program ended. Upon request by the recreation department, the town board voted to fund his position until 1980.

Town Attorney Jene Thompson was advised by the board to advertise the sale of two buildings and lots owned by the town of Warsaw — the old town hall (old Branch Bank) and the old police department. The board was also advised by Town Clerk Alfred Herring that Warsaw had received an extension on their Clean Water bond grants until June 15, 1980.

REEVES APPOINTS KORNEGAY GENERAL MANAGER - Cecil Kornegay has been appointed general manager of the Kenansville plant effective Feb. 1. Other promotions announced by Fred Shank, Reeves vice president of manufacturing, are Bill Savage to production manager and Janet Jones to engineering department manager.

Kornegay resides at Mount Olive along with his wife, Betty Lou and two sons, Douglas and David. He has been employed at the Reeves Kenansville plant since 1968. The change in organization is the result of Dennis Bell resigning as manager so that he could pursue a new business he plans to start in the near future.

Kenansville Board Endorses County Water System

The Kenansville commissioners voted to send a letter of endorsement to the Duplin County commissioners and the Duplin Planning Board for the county-wide water system at the regular meeting of the board Jan. 7.

County Commissioner D.J. Fussell, Duplin Development Director John Gurganus, County Manager Ralph Cottle and the engineer for the county water system, Bob Pittman, were present to explain the plans for a county-wide water system. Gurganus said the system would serve as an auxiliary water supply to towns and provide better rural fire protection. He pointed out that the system is designed to be self-supporting and would be phased, serving the most populated rural areas first, and then branching out into the less populated areas.

According to Engineer Pittman, the average water bill will be about $10 a month, with a minimum of $7.50. The water system is designed to serve 75% of the county at the end of the second phase. To complete the project through the second phase will cost $17 million, and 60% of the cost is funded through grants, Pittman said.

The town board also approved an agreement with the county to supply water for the line which will connect Kenansville and Greenevers. The line is planned to run along Highway 11 from Kenansville to Register's Crossroads, turning and continuing to Greenevers. The line is expected to serve about 175 homes, and will be funded through grant money.

Town Administrator Woody Brinson explained to board members that selling water to the county would generate $3,000-4,000 a year and be more profitable than serving customers in town because there would be no maintenance cost of lines. The contract would be for two years and allow Kenansville to buy water at the same rate it sells it to the county if a need arose. A similar agreement was made with the Greenevers town board to furnish water to the rural county waterline by the county board of commissioners.

Carolina Power and Light representative, Kermit Anderson, presented the Kenansville commissioners with a proposed plan to change 22 mercury vapor street lights to sodium vapor lights in the downtown section of town. Anderson explained that as much as five times more light would be produced at a cost of $40 more each month. The added light would mean better protection for downtown merchants and cut down on loitering and littering at night, he added.

After a discussion of the proposed plan to change the street lights, the board voted to change 18 in the immediate downtown area where the merchants would benefit most and not change some lights around county build-
