Duplin Students Honored At MOC

Eight students who gradu-ated from Duplin County. high schools are studying at Mount Olive College under the academic honors program. The program, which is comprised of presidential and faculty scholars, recognizes students who have excelled in academic, leadership, and citizenship roles.

of the more than 400 students enrolled at the college, 20 percent, or 89 students, are participating in the academic honors program with a presidential or faculty scholarship. Presi-dential scholars, of which there are 55 in the program, are students who graduated with an A average or in the top ten percent of their high classes. Faculty scholars, numbering 34 of the 89 members, are students who ranked in the top 20 percent of their high school classes.

The purposes of the pro-gram at Mount Olive, according to Kenneth Dilda, social science instructor and advisor, are to provide intellectual stimulation and ichment and to acknowe academic excellence.

The honors program stimulates participants' minds through a series of six ectures, seminars, debates, panel discussions, and other scholarly programs each year. In addition, sophomore participants attend an educational retreat in the spring before they graduate.

In recognition of their academic achievements, students who successfully complete the program by maintaining a 3.6 grade point average out of a possible 4.0 for presidential scholars and a 3.2 for faculty scholars, are awarded certificates at the end of each academic year. addition, graduating sophomores have a notation of successful completion of the honors program placed on their transcripts.

A sophomore from Calypso, Jeff Hargrove, is a presidential scholar in the

Also participating in the program are seven fresh-men. They are: Melody Love Kennedy, a presidential scholar, and Melanie G. Kennedy, a faculty scholar, both of Pink Hill; Betty Ruth Outlaw, a presidential scho-lar; faculty scholar Kimberly Jean Kornegay, and Lisa Dale Swinson, also a faculty scholar, all of Mount Olive; Mary Bertha Taylor, a faculty scholar from Warsaw; and Kimberly Donna Pickett. a presidential scholar from Beulaville.
